Condition of Ike Is Uncertain

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army doctors said today the heart attack suffered by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower Tuesday was a major one equal in severity to Eisenhower's earlier major attacks. They said the outlook was "guarded," or unpredictable.

Doctors of Walter Reed Army Hospital said so in answer to questions submitted by newsmen.

But in a formal medical bulletin they said they were "satisfied with his current progress," and that he had spent a comfortable night.

In answer to questions, they said Eisenhower is receiving oxygen continuously as a treatment.

The doctors had been asked this question: "How does the general's present heart attack compare in severity with his previous ones, especially the attack of June 1967?"

The answer was, "Equal severity."

Eisenhower has suffered five earlier heart attacks, several of them including the last previous one on June 15 rated as major.

The doctors replied "negative" and "not pertinent" to questions whether they had considered a heart transplant for Eisenhower, and whether a person with his history of heart trouble would be an eligible candidate for a new heart.

As to the outlook in Eisenhower's case, the doctors' reply was: "The prognosis in the early days following any myocardial infarction is 'guarded.' The word 'guarded' means that in this early period after any heart attack, the outcome is unpredictable."

Thinks Integration Is Generation Away, Sees Improved Conditions

By JACK MILLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Welfare secretary Wilbur J. Cohen says integration may be a generation away in many northern city school systems and the goal in the meantime should be to improve conditions in black neighborhoods.

"I think we have to be realistic," the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare said. "In a large number of big-city areas do this at present."

Since Ucar can be bound by conventional methods, Union Carbide has suggested that it be used to make children's books and cook books especially, because they are constantly being exposed to various liquids.

National Geographic prints its old line of cloth maps on Ucar now because it holds color so well, Philpot says.

The new paper does have a few drawbacks, however. It will not burn with a flame so it would be worthless for starting a fire in the fireplace. What about house-

Seven Policemen and Woman Wounded by Roaming Negro Youths

By JOSEPH R. TYBOR

Associated Press Writer

HARVEY, Ill. (AP) — Sporadic gunfire wounded seven policemen and a woman during a disturbance caused by Negro youths, and scores of law enforcement officers moved in early today to secure the troubled area.

State, county and local police officers, helmeted and heavily armed, massed at a food store parking lot waiting for action, but the area was calm hours after the initial outburst late Tuesday night.

Mayor James Haines of Harvey, who is white, said five officers, helmeted and heavily armed, massed at a food store parking lot waiting for action, but the area was calm hours after the initial outburst late Tuesday night.

He blamed the disorder, which started late Tuesday night, on "expressive heat."

On evening, like this it's more comfortable to stand on a street corner," he said.

The disturbance centered in a four-block-square area near the borderline of Harvey and Dixon, suburbs 17 miles south of downtown Chicago with a population of 35,000.

The mayor said the Negro youths massed at a car wash and became abusive. Police moved in and ordered the youths to scatter. They remained in the general area for a time and several shots were fired.

Eight arrests were reported, mostly for disorderly conduct.

A spokesman for Ingalls Hospital said none of the seven policemen—three from Harvey and four from neighboring Dixon—was critically injured. Three officers were admitted for treatment. One officer was shot in the face as he patrolled the area in a squad car.

Three other persons were treated for minor injuries and released, including a Negro woman, who said she was struck by two police bullets while officers were "chasing the rioters and shooting at them."

She said the bullets penetrated a wall of her home, striking her in the left arm near the elbow and in the right wrist. She received first aid at Ingalls Hospital.

Tuesday's disorders marked the second straight night of trouble in Harvey. Several hundred Negroes lit a bonfire Monday night and danced around it playing drums and throwing rocks. Police action was limited to cordoning off traffic from the area.

The fighting swirled in and out of three provinces centered about 125 miles southwest of Saigon on the fringes of the U Minh forest, a Viet Cong sanctuary virtually untouched by government troops for more than 20 years.

Armored troop carriers from the U.S. Navy's Riverine Force moved up and down the rivers and canals with gunboat escorts, carrying more than 1,000 American infantrymen from the MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — On the day of presidential balloting at the Republican National Convention, Richard M. Nixon was still 54 votes short of the necessary majority in The Associated Press survey of hard-core first ballot strength.

Nixon picked up 27 votes Tuesday, mainly from previously uncommitted delegates, to bring his total to 613. The count is based on primary results, public pledges and the results of AP delegation polls and caucuses. Only firmly committed delegates are counted, not those leaning one way.

A total of 76 delegates remained publicly uncommitted, while 195 were being held by "favorite son" candidates led by Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes and Michigan Gov. George Romney.

The AP count put New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller second with 272 votes while California Gov. Ronald Reagan remained a distant third with 176. Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York has the support of one Minnesota delegate.

Major Nixon gains Tuesday were eight in Pennsylvania and 10 in Mississippi, while Rockefeller picked up six in Minnesota, five in Hawaii and three in Missouri.

Nixon Forges Nearer to Nomination as the Republican Choice

By JACK BELL

And

BARRY SCHWEID

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon headed down the stretch today in his quest for the Republican presidential nomination, by all indications a good bet to take the prize on the first ballot.

His chief challenger, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, sought to block the former vice president's path with the No. 1 argument of anti-Nixon forces— that Nixon couldn't win in November.

"To pick a man who can't win would be a tragedy for the country," Rockefeller told newsmen after opening his 11th hour drive with an appeal to 120 delegates and alternates from 13 western states.

The Associated Press, in a nose count some 12 hours before tonight's final balloting, found Nixon with 615 first-round votes, Rockefeller with 270, and the third man in the race, Gov. Ronald Reagan of California with 177.

Another 195 delegates were lined up behind favorite sons, 75 were uncommitted and one stood alone for New York City's Mayor John V. Lindsay. Needed for victory: 667.

Nixon exuded confidence. "We're going to win," he said cheerily on the eve of the balloting. Charts posted by his aides in a hotel headquarters flashed the same optimism. "More than 700 votes," they read.

Rockefeller saw in all this enthusiasm "evidence of cold war strategy." The Nixon people, he said, were trying to give delegates the impression Nixon has the nomination in the bag.

"It just is not true," the governor declared.

Reagan, meanwhile, pushed ahead with a campaign that put the accent on salesmanship and good cheer. He was being low key.

Asked how many votes he had, the onetime actor replied: "I'd love to find out." Asked if he would really like to be President, he replied with more emphasis: "You bet I'd like it."

Though there have been reports Reagan has been gathering strength, particularly among more conservative delegates, his aides pegged the governor's delegate strength at about 200—a figure they gave a week ago.

To win, the Rockefeller and Reagan people have to keep the flags of favorite sons flying high, especially on the first ballot.

Cong Admits Troops in S. Vietnam

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

AP Special Correspondent

PARIS (AP) — The United States told North Vietnam at the Paris peace talks today that 14 captured North Vietnamese seamen will be released. Last week three U.S. fliers, released by the North Vietnamese, came out of Hanoi.

The North Vietnamese handled their release of the airmen mainly through the peace talks and the United States responded using the same channel with an obvious interest in tying the goodwill gestures into the search for peace.

The peace probes themselves were conducted in today's meeting—the 16th session.

Ambassador Ha Van Lau of North Vietnam spurned a recent demand by Secretary of State Dean Rusk for some authoritative word from Hanoi on how North Vietnam would respond to a total halt in the U.S. bombing.

Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, going into the conference, said North Vietnam had infiltrated 30,000 troops into the South in July and failed to show any of the restraint asked by President Johnson.

Ambassador Xuan Thuy was absent. Aides said he had been ordered by his doctors to rest. He has been absent from some previous sessions because of a persistent cold.

Harriman announced the release of the seamen was a gesture of goodwill and not an act of reciprocity for the freeing of the pilots. He did not explain why he sought to separate the two actions when an American response had been expected since North Vietnam announced the fliers would be freed.

The 14 North Vietnamese have been held captive since 1966. Harriman said they had been captured when attempting to attack U.S. naval vessels. The group originally totaled 19 but 5 were released previously.

Harriman told Lau the United States had been ready for months to stop all bombing of the North "but you tried to portray us as unwilling to discuss cessations of bombing... as changing our position."

"The answer to the President's appeal which we have heard thus far in Paris," Harriman said, "and the signs we have seen on the ground in Vietnam—have given the President no basis to take the additional risk that a complete bombing cessation would entail."

MANILA (AP) — Premier Pham Van Dong of North Vietnam has admitted that North Vietnamese troops are fighting alongside the Viet Cong in South Vietnam, a Philippine weekly magazine reports.

The Graphic said the premier made the statement in an interview with the magazine's assistant publisher, J. Antonio Arana Jr., and his wife.

If true, the admission would be the first public acknowledgment by a North Vietnamese official that troops from the North are operating in the South. The U.S. government believes that such an admission by North Vietnam might provide the basis for a discussion at the Paris peace talks of ways to get the North Vietnamese out of the South.

Arana reported that he asked Pham: "Your government, in public statements, refuses to admit that you are actually helping the National Liberation Front in the South by sending troops and war materials? Why do you deny it?"

He said that Pham replied with "a puzzled expression." "We do not deny that. We are indeed helping the NLF in every way we can—including the sending of our own troops."

"Since the U.S. invades our fatherland in the South and attacks the North, why should we renounce our right to defend our entire fatherland from every corner of our sacred territory?"

Arana said in Manila that he was surprised Pham made the statement.

U.S. Steel to Increase Prices More

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bethlehem Steel Corp. cut its recent price hikes almost in half today to remain competitive with U.S. Steel, which had announced new but more modest price increases earlier in the day.

Less than two hours after U.S. Steel, the nation's No. 1 producer, announced price raises on steels used in huge quantities by the auto and appliance industries, No. 2-ranked Bethlehem said he was chopping its prices.

Bethlehem said its general price increase of 5 per cent was being cut to 2.4 per cent on all its products. A spokesman said the cut was made "to be competitive with those of U.S. Steel."

And Inland steel, another big producer, said it would "remain competitive in all its product lines."

The new prices for the Bethlehem will go into effect Aug. 16 instead of previously announced

lot. Nixon's chances for a first ballot victory could hinge on whatever switches might take place if he closed in on 667 as the clerk completed the state-by-state tally.

At completion of the first roll call individual delegates—or whole delegations for that matter—could ask to change their vote in the hope of being singled out for later political recognition as supplying the winner with the margin necessary for nomination.

Although Leonard W. Hall, Rockefeller's convention manager, stuck to his claim that Nixon would get no more than 560 votes on the first count, this did not necessarily reflect the opinion of those grappling with realities in the New York governor's camp.

Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, one of a dozen inner-circle advisers, said a great problem in stopping Nixon lies in the possibility of southern delegates who have switched to Reagan in the last few days jumping to Nixon if it appears their votes could put him over.

F. Clifton White, Reagan's convention floor manager, said in a separate interview that just won't happen.

Big Crops in Prospect for Europe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Big farm crops are in prospect for most of Europe this year, the Department of Agriculture says in its mid-year review of agriculture in Europe and the Soviet Union.

But drought has cut the farm outlook in southeastern areas and in the southern part of the Soviet Union in Europe, the department said. Dry weather also has hurt farmers in Greece and Italy.

Western Europe is expected to have a grain crop almost equal to the record production of 1967. Wheat and rye production will be well below the large production of last year in eastern Europe.

Grain crop prospects in the Soviet Union were described as fair as of early July, but Soviet wheat production is estimated down from 1967, the department said.

Big Increase

Motor vehicle registrations in the United States increased by 4,099,000 during 1967. There was a total of 101,626,000 cars, trucks and buses registered as of Jan. 1, 1968, compared to 97,527,000 a year earlier.

Aug. 8, said the spokesman. The announcements appeared to indicate that the industry would not completely roll back its price hikes because of opposition by President Johnson, but was prepared to settle for smaller boosts.

Among the products that U.S. Steel boosted today was hot rolled sheet and strip and cold rolled sheets. These are used for making auto bodies and appliances, such as refrigerators and stoves.

Lawmaker Would Make Capital Safe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. John Paul Hammerschmidt, R-Ark., said Tuesday that he supports a proposed bill to "assure that the capital of the United States... would be spared the disruption and virtual national disgrace of another so-called Reconstruction City."

The bill would prohibit overnight camping and erection of temporary shelters on public ground or park areas under jurisdiction of the secretary of interior if they are not designated and regularly used as a camp site.

Get New Plan Marvel School Board Told

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Marvel School Board was told Tuesday by U.S. District Court Judge Oran Harris to produce a new desegregation plan by Feb. 1 to abolish its dual school system.

In the meantime, the board was given permission to continue using its freedom-of-choice plan for the coming school year.

"For this school district, freedom of choice is out the window," Harris said following a hearing here. He said it had failed to produce sufficient progress in desegregation.

School Supt. C. G. Cowser testified at the hearing that the district's pupil population was 75 per cent Negro. He said that in 1959 and both have 24 years of perfect attendance. At yesterday's regular noon luncheon of the Hope Kiwanis Club at Town & Country Jack Lowe introduced four who have been members of the club for 25 years and more. Charles Tarpley and Bill Mudgett joined the club in 1939 and both have 24 years of perfect attendance. Henry Haynes has 25 years perfect attendance in the 26 he has been a member and Dr. Jim McKenzie has been a member 27 years with nine years of perfect attendance.

In introducing the foursome Mr. Lowe read excerpts of the happenings of time when they joined the club. His data as to the happenings and prices of various items was taken from the Star files.

James Pilkinton, Clarence Geist and Paul Riley, all former members, have rejoined the club. Mayor Jack Lowe announced that Oakhaven family day has been set for Sunday, August 11.

Crank Scored as Member of Old Guard

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mrs. Virginia Johnson, saying the disarray of the state's affairs perhaps required a woman's touch, attacked her runoff opponent in a speech Tuesday night that was her hardest hitting of the campaign.

Mrs. Johnson linked her opponent, Marion Crank of Foreman, to the "old guard" and said "the machine counties, plus the Hot Springs gamblers, plus the Little Rock governor makers have joined forces to try to regain their lost power."

She said, in a television speech shown in Little Rock and Jonesboro, that "a handful of vested interests and county machine politicians have undertaken to disenfranchise all of the people in Arkansas."

Mrs. Johnson said an analysis of the first primary vote showed that Crank's lead "came from such counties as Conway County presided over by Sheriff Marlin Hawkins and 15 other so-called machine counties over the state."

"This is 'bossism' of the worst type," she said.

Crank led the ticket in the July 30 primary and Mrs. Johnson won the No. 2 spot in the Democratic gubernatorial runoff Aug. 13 by about 400 votes over Ted Boswell. Crank received 106,092 vote in the first primary and Mrs. Johnson 86,038.

Mrs. Johnson also expressed concern over the six-day delay in certifying the vote.

"Do you really believe that it took over a week to determine the outcome of the last election, or was this calculated to deny me a whole week of campaigning?" she asked.

9th Division and 500 South Vietnamese marines into action.

At the other end of South Vietnam, U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese paratroopers reported killing 75 North Vietnamese troops in clashes Tuesday south of Da Nang, an area of intensified fighting in the past two weeks. Allied losses included one Marine and 10 South Vietnamese killed, 14 South Vietnamese and 22 Marines wounded, and two South Vietnamese missing.

In one clash 10 miles south of Da Nang, U.S. Marines from the 5th Regiment came under heavy machine-gun, mortar and recoilless rifle fire. Supported by fighter-bombers, tanks and artillery, the Leathernecks counterattacked and over-ran the enemy three hours later. Twenty-three of the enemy were reported killed and Marine casualties were one dead and 22 wounded.

Fifty-two enemy were reported killed in a clash with troops of the South Vietnamese 51st Regiment 21 miles south of Da Nang along National Highway 1, Vietnam's main north-south route. South Vietnamese casualties were put at 10 killed, 14 wounded and two missing. They included three dead and seven wounded when a military vehicle hit an enemy mine on the highway.

North Vietnamese troops also attacked the perimeter of a small U.S. Marine unit on Hill 606, near the abandoned Khe Sanh combat base. Four Marines were killed and six wounded, but the Leathernecks repulsed the invaders. Enemy casualties were not known.

East of Khe Sanh, enemy gunners shot down a Marine CH-46 helicopter. The crew and passengers were rescued unharmed, headquarters said.

Then the silver-haired senator launched into a 25-minute oration of his own, interrupted by applause more than a dozen times.

The 72-year-old Senate Republican leader lit into the Democratic administration of his sometimes close associate, President Johnson.

"Oh, how cynical, how mocking, that political slogan—'The Great Society,'" Dirksen exclaimed to Republican shouts.

"Never has an administration so disregarded the limits of our resources, our patience, our unwillingness—indeed, our inability—to police and sustain a bellicose and insatiable world. Open-hearted, yes open-handed, we long have been—but my friends, the time to reassess our generosity is now...."

"Never has the nation been so mired in debt—never its budget so bloated, the deficit so huge, the spending so unrestrained except in all-out war. Once upon a time people talked of the sky as the limit. Now we've been rocketed to fiscal outer space...."

"Must law-abiding citizens don bullet-proof vests safely to take an evening stroll?" Dirksen asked. "Must we avoid our great cities by night as if they were guerrilla-infested hamlets out in Vietnam?"

"No!" shouted the Republican delegates en masse.

"This ballyhooed 'Great Society,'" Dirksen continued, "the brainchild of an English socialist six decades ago—is not a New Deal—no, not even a Fair Deal; it's just a straight-out misdeal...."

Reagan Won't Take Bid for V-president

By BILL BOYARSKY

Associated Press Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan said today he will reject the Republican vice presidential nomination if it is offered him by the GOP National Convention.

"I am not and will not under any circumstances be a candidate for vice president. Neither will I be available for a draft," Reagan said in telegrams to all state delegation chairmen.

The governor, actively pursuing the presidential nomination told newsmen that someone is spreading reports that he would accept the vice presidency.

In the telegram, he told the delegates, "I am not a candidate and cannot be drafted" for the nomination for second place on the GOP ticket.

If he is offered the position, he said "I will become the third person in the history of our party to reject this high office."

Reagan aides said the two other men in history who rejected the nomination were Sen. Cyrus Right in 1844 and Republican Frank Lowden, in 1924.

The secretary also said that his department plans to "step up very substantially and materially" its program to assure equal educational opportunities for Negro children in Northern schools.

The Northern program, begun early this year, is an extension of HEW's civil rights compliance efforts in Southern school systems.

Cohen acknowledged that expansion of the Northern program would be required under provisions inserted by Southerners in a bill pending before Congress. The provision would require HEW to assign as many school civil rights investigators to the North as it does to the South.

Dancers Are Going Go-Go at Convention

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The dancers are going go-go.

Backsides and bosoms have become bouncing political billboards, emblazoned with NIXON, ROCKY and REAGAN in an eye-catching bit of pub pageantry not officially part of the Republican National Convention program.

The torso of one go-go dancer in a Miami Beach bistro is decorated with an undulating elephant, the trunk of that traditional Republican symbol curled around her navel.

Other dancers already revealing support for ROCKY and NIXON in the obvious places are at a loss on how to bring their political policies abreast of Reagan's entry into the race.

The greasepaint politics is sometimes less than pure at heart.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television Writer HOLLY HODGSON, who is the producer of CBS's new comedy series "Blondie," tapped actor Will Hutchins to play Dagwood Bumstead, they did not know they had acquired a long-time student of the venerable comic trip.

"Very few people remember why Dagwood is such a bumbler," said Will authoritatively over a noon repast that, minus bread, looked amazingly like a Dagwood sandwich surmounted by melted mozzarella cheese.

"Chic Young's comic strip was started in the late 1920s and one of the depression themes was that he was the son of a very rich man who, until he lost his money, had never done anything practical."

Will, whose speciality as a performer is projecting a gentle, naive quality, is a lanky six-footer who resembles not at all the cartoon character nor even Arthur Laken the actor who with Penny Singleton made careers out of playing Dagwood and Blondie in a series of almost 30 motion pictures. But Hutchins, still remembered for his four years in television's early "Sugarfoot" series, seems to be right for the role. Patricia Harty plays the title role.

Hutchins, who can kick dust and say "Ah, shucks" very convincingly, actually isn't all that unsophisticated and has a nice easy way with a comedy line. After "Sugarfoot," there was "Hey, Landlord," which barely staggered through the 1966-67 season. His TV wife, "Miss Harty," had a similar experience that year with "Occasional Wife," and both series were better than their ratings indicated.

The actor, who looks much younger than he is—early thirties—recently won through one of those civilized, amicable divorces from Christine Burnett, Carol's real-life younger sister. "What I'd love," said Will, "is to bring back Arthur Lake and Penny Singleton to play our children's grandparents. But I doubt if anyone would go along with that idea."

ABC executives are pleased with overnight ratings of the network's 90-minute nightly convention wrap-up. A national survey for the 9:30-11 p.m. time period on the first night showed that, in terms of audience size, it trailed NBC by just less than a point and CBS by two points—low network on the convention-coverage pool but still twice as strong as its showing four years ago.

The first of the nightly summaries suffered from the same problems that bugged the continuing live coverage of CBS and NBC—lack of stimulating raw material with which to work.

Survival Techniques Can Save Your Life

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Survival techniques are very important, as witness the fact that of some 100,000 persons who die each year in natural disasters about 20,000 perish because they don't use known principles of survival. Let me cite two examples: A young man and his brother, while driving across the Great Salt Lake Desert, decided to explore the back country.

Their auto bogged down in the sand so they started to walk back to the highway, a distance of several miles. With the sun beating down on them, they discarded their shirts. They died of heat stroke before they reached help. Their first mistake was to try to cross the desert in a vehicle that was not equipped for this type of travel. Furthermore, they failed to carry water with them, abandoned their vehicle, which was spotted from the air before they were, and traveled in the heat of the day instead of waiting until dark.

Another family was traveling in the Grand Canyon area when their car failed. They were without food or water and the temperature was over 120 degrees. They rested in the shade of the car and the father cut strips from a blanket to make an SOS sign on the sand. He smeared motor oil on his spare tire and ignited it to make a smoke signal.

He also disconnected the rearview mirror so that he could signal an airplane if one should pass. He removed all four hub caps and used them to catch the early morning dew. The family ate some glue made of casein that they had brought along. Although they were badly dehydrated when they were found by a rescue party, all recovered from their ordeal.

Experts believe that in an emergency situation only about 25 per cent of persons remain calm and use their wits to improve their chances for survival. Survival is now taught in three Air Force schools. One specializes in jungle survival, one in arctic survival and one in oceanic survival.

The underlying principle in all three courses is that human beings are capable of unbelievable endurance and can adapt to adverse conditions if they are taught to react properly. No matter how hostile a natural environment may seem to be, men have at one time or another been able to live in it for long periods if they were able to overcome their despair and feeling of hopelessness.

DR. AND MRS. FRANCIS AUSBURY BUDDIN

Dr. and Mrs. Francis Ausbury Buddin of 1711 Beech Street, Texarkana, Arkansas, will observe their Golden Wedding Anniversary with a reception in the Parlor of the First Methodist Church, Sixth and Laurel Streets, Texarkana, Arkansas, on Monday evening, August 19, from 7 until 9 o'clock.

Dr. and Mrs. Buddin were married on August 19, 1918, in Spartanburg, South Carolina, in the Parsonage of the then Presiding Elder of the Spartanburg District of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, just after Mr. Buddin received his B.A. and M.A. Degrees from Wofford College in Spartanburg and just before the young Lieutenant Chaplain was expecting immediate orders, never received, from the United States Army for overseas duty in France during World War I.

Mrs. Buddin is the former Miss Gladys Murph of Whitestone, Spartanburg County, South Carolina. Dr. Buddin is a native of Williamsburg County, South Carolina.

Dr. Buddin served as Pastor of the First Methodist Church in Hope, Arkansas, for two years, from November, 1928, until November, 1930, and it was during his pastorate that the then new Parsonage was planned and constructed.

Dr. Buddin's pastoral appointments include the Methodist Churches in Pamlico, Kershaw and Trinity Church, Charleston, in his native South Carolina; Asbury, Little Rock, First Churches in Hope, Texarkana, Pine Bluff and Arkadelphia in Arkansas; Munger Place Church and District Superintendent of the Dallas District of the Methodist Church in Dallas, Texas; and, returning to Arkansas, he served First Church, Hot Springs, District Superintendent of the Little Rock District of the Methodist Church and First Churches in Camden and Newport, before semi-retirement in Texarkana, Arkansas, in June, 1961, where he served the First Methodist Church, Texarkana, Arkansas, until June, 1966, as Pastor Emeritus and Visitation Minister, and for the Conference Year beginning in June, 1966, he served as full time pastor of the Methodist Churches on the Annona, Texas, Circuit, before complete retirement in June, 1967.

The Buddins have three children, Francis A., Jr., who lives with his family in Dallas, Texas, and is a School Picture Photographer; Gladys Lipscomb, whose husband, the Rev. Robert M. Walker, is Pastor of the North End Methodist Church in Beaumont, Texas; and, Eumelia Eloise, whose husband, the Rev. Robert A. Greaves, is Pastor of the Holy Trinity Methodist Church in Houston, Texas; eight grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Dr. and Mrs. Buddin decided on retirement in Texarkana, where they have many friends, as a focal point where they could remain in touch with their many dear and wonderful friends throughout Arkansas and Texas, and, where they are within a convenient distance of their children and grandchildren who all reside in Texas.

Dr. and Mrs. Buddin extend a cordial invitation to all of their Hope friends to attend the reception and of hearing from those who cannot attend, but, request that no gifts be given.

Baby Cream Rubs In

If you think it takes gobs of goo to treat your skin overnight, you couldn't be more wrong. Pure baby cream has all the softening powers without the disadvantages of some night creams. Baby cream is light and rubs in to become invisible and it doesn't stain your pillow case, either. When you wake up in the morning there is no cream residue on your face because it has been absorbed. Your face just looks young and fresh.

The Roman club as played by Belladonna and Avarelli is an artificial bid that shows a balanced 12 to 16 high card points. Belladonna, who is a law unto himself at the table, chose to shade it to 10 points on the hand shown here. The spiltball had the effect of shutting the Americans out.

Not that the American East didn't find a bid over the club showing his suit. Avarelli's two spade call was invitational but not forcing in the Roman system, and Belladonna had no problem about what to bid with his 10-point opening.

The defense started with a club lead and a club ruff. Avarelli still had to lose a diamond, two hearts and the ace of trumps, but down one was a mighty cheap save.

The United States North passed quite properly, whereupon the Italians proceeded to bid and make four hearts.

It is easy to see how the United States pair could have found their way to four hearts, in spite of the club opening bid, but it would almost require clairvoyance at the table. East had a good hand but how could he know that South had stabbed in spades and hit his partner with four card support and a nothing hand?

Furthermore, while East and West can make five hearts as the cards lie, and while the heart game would be reached without the club bid, the contract is not the sort that is sure to make. Suits don't have to break and the ace of diamonds doesn't have to show up in front of the king.

So we have to put this particular loss down to Italian luck plus Belladonna's decision to step out and make life difficult for his opponents.

Daughters of Nixon Are Confident

By JEAN HELLER

Associated Press Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — With all those delegates about to cast all those votes, there was nothing in the world that could convince Richard M. Nixon's daughters that their candidate would do anything but sweep the convention.

In a sun-flooded hotel suite 17 floors above the Atlantic Ocean, Tricia and Julie Nixon and Julie's fiancé, David Eisenhower, sat on the edge of a bed and fairly bounced in anticipation of Republican National Convention action.

"We don't even talk in terms of polls and ballots any more," said Julie, 20. "We're going to win on the first ballot and we're going to win the election. Everybody should know that by now. We do."

The three of them took none the worse for wear after months of campaigning for Nixon, but admit readily that it's been a grueling job.

"I think we were almost killed outside the hotel," Julie said of a crushing demonstration by Nixon supporters outside his headquarters when the family arrived Monday evening.

"I've never been through anything like that, and I guess I could say honestly that I've been in politics a long time."

All her life, to be exact.

Julie wasn't even born when Richard Nixon was first elected to Congress in 1946. Tricia, now 22, was only an infant.

He's been in and out of politics—mostly in—ever since, so both of his daughters have grown up in the campaign wars. They've been in four national campaigns and one gubernatorial battle, but none quite like this.

Tricia, Julie and David joined forces this year in the Nixon cause, the girls as family campaigners and David as national chairman of Youth for Nixon.

"This (convention) battle has been the hardest fight in many ways," David said. "We've won it, though, and Humphrey can be beaten. There's no doubt about that."

The girls indicated agreement by bouncing on the bed.

"The thing that's been so exciting about this campaign," Tricia said, "is that we've been able to do something more than look sweet for cameras this time. We've been able to do more than watch Mom and Dad on television. We've been able, I hope, to do something to help the cause."

The trio has been so successful at its job that some conventioners here have started talking of David in terms of future candidate material.

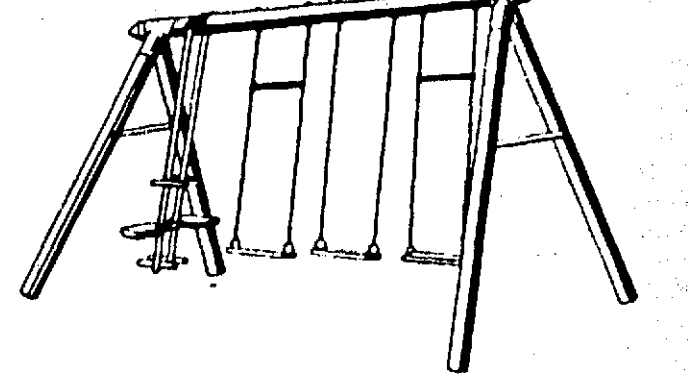

"Oh, brother, they've got to be kidding!" David said, laughing at the prospect. "If anybody needs a campaign manager, I'd be happy to help, but be a candidate? I don't know about that."

"My real fun is in being a close observer without having the trials and tribulations of the man in the middle."

"I think the day that may have subdued any political ambition of my own was the day I saw Mr. Nixon travel to Chicago, Milwaukee and Portland, Ore., make two telephone speeches from Portland, open a campaign headquarters, stand in a receiving line for three-and-a-half hours shaking hands then go back to his hotel to write speeches."

"Now that's a grind."

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bettel

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT! This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help Us! it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush off.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Help Us! this newspaper.

THE BRIGHTER SIDE OF THE COIN

Dear Helen: You don't generalize, and this is good, for circumstances and the people involved alter "solutions." There are all types of unwed mothers. As you say, for some, it's best to give their babies up, but not for all! Keep saying it!

At a very young age, I became pregnant. Fortunately I had understanding relatives and friends. I forgave myself and started out to make the best of my life with my new responsibility. As soon as I was able after my little boy was born, I went to school and learned to be a market checker. I worked until my bones ached. The child's father, with some reluctance, provided a little help.

Now I am married to a wonderful man who "fell in love with both of us." Adoption papers and records are sealed, but we will tell our son as soon as he is old enough that he was adopted by his father and that his mother wouldn't have given him up for anything in the world.

Will he know he was "born out of wedlock?" Aren't most adopted children?

Does a girl with an illegitimate child have two strikes against her when it comes to a good marriage? Not if she is decent and otherwise desirable. I am not even pretty, but I had two other offers of marriage from fine men before I fell in love with my husband.

I would advise unwed expectant mothers to ask themselves if they are really the type to take the easiest way out. It may not be the best way to lasting happiness... And then again it may... NOT UNIQUE

Dear N.U.: True! In any human relations problem the question is not, "Is this what others have done?" but "Is this decision wisest and best for those most intimately involved with the situation?" And that takes a lot of thinking!—H.

Dear Helen: In your "What is A...?" series, someone important has been overlooked. So here's my version of WHAT IS A GRANDPA?

A Grandpa is someone you can trust. He'll keep you company when you're alone. You can tell him your secrets and he won't breathe a word.

A Grandpa is a friend who'll let you beat him at checkers on purpose. He'll even sneak you on an all-night fishing trip and when you spill the can of worms in the ocean, he won't throw you overboard.

He's someone who will take you home with him on vacation. If you're wondering if he'll forget you on your birthday, forget it. He's not that kind of guy.

He's only just the greatest guy on earth.—LYNN

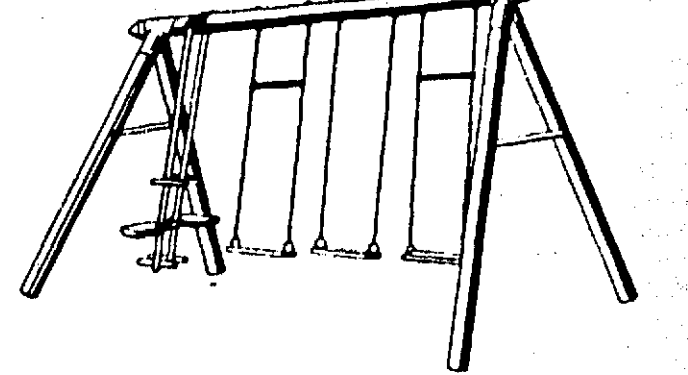

Dear Helen: Better get your mail bags ready because I have a feeling you're going to be deluged with letters protesting your advice to use only one foot when driving an automatic shift automobile. (Note from H: You're SO-o-o right!)

Stick to love! and worn, chum, and leave the driving to us!—JOE

Dear Joe: And YOU'D better check with a driver training school and the D of MV, whose advice to novices is: "Forget you have a left foot."—H.

Errors Prove Fight Last Night Downfall of Braves

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Atlanta Braves fumbled the ball and Don Drysdale couldn't pick it up.

The Braves committed four errors in the first inning Tuesday night on the way to a 4-3 loss to Chicago that gave the Cubs undisputed possession of second place in the National League.

Drysdale bobbed Maury Wills' bases-loaded roller in the ninth inning and the Pittsburgh Pirates added two more runs for a 4-1 victory over the skidding Los Angeles Dodgers' ace.

Cincinnati's Jim Maloney stopped the first-place St. Louis Cardinals 5-0 with a five-hitter; San Francisco trimmed Philadelphia 4-1 behind the hitting of rookie Bobby Bonds and the New York Mets topped Houston 4-1 on rookie Kevin Collins' three-run ninth-inning homer.

In the American League, Detroit beat Cleveland 2-1 in 17 innings and led the Indians 5-2 after eight innings of their double-header nightcap when play was suspended because of a curfew; California trounced Washington 10-3 before bowing to the Senators 1-0; Boston drubbed the Chicago White Sox 9-2 and Minnesota nipped Baltimore 5-4.

The Cubs capitalized on two errors by Felipe Alou—on the same play—and one each by Marty Martinez and Felix Milian for a 3-0 first-inning lead at Atlanta.

Fifth-inning doubles by Al Spangler and Randy Hundley sent another Chicago run home and the Cubs weathered a late comeback by the Braves for the seventh victory in eight games.

Hank Aaron and Alou hit bases-empty homers for Atlanta before Phil Regan, the Cubs' relief ace, nailed the victory for starter Joe Niekro.

The Pirates broke a 1-1 tie at Los Angeles on Drysdale's second error in the ninth and Willie Stargell provided insurance with a two-run single.

Thinks Falcons Are Now on Right Track

By RON SPEER
Associated Press Sports Writer
JOHNSON CITY, Tenn. (AP) — Coach Norb Hecker is convinced he finally has the Atlanta Falcons on the right track, although a lack of offensive punch is still apparent.

"I think we're finally jelling as a team, particularly on defense," said Hecker, hoping to rebound from a disappointing season in 1967 when the Falcons managed only a single victory.

"The team attitude is the best we've had," Hecker said. "Our defense is really working as a unit, and our passing should be better because our receivers have made a lot of improvement."

A pair of big rookies, 250-pound Carlton Dabney of Morgan State and 255-pound Claude Humphrey of Tennessee State, are ticketed for starting jobs in the defensive line, a trouble spot for the Falcons since they made their National Football League debut in 1966.

"The line is the key to our improvement on defense, and it should be a lot stronger this year with Dabney and Humphrey in there," Hecker said.

The Falcons have a proven corps of linebackers headed by big Tommy Nobis, and a tested defensive secondary in Ken Reeves, Nick Rassas, Bob Riggs and Lee Calland.

Offensively, however, the Falcons may have trouble because of a lack of running backs.

Junior Coffey, who gained more than 700 yards each of the past two seasons, was the only running standout and he has been sidelined for a couple of months with a knee injury.

Freak Play Highlights Oriole Loss

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
It was out and you're on and on and you're out.

Any fan knows that's no way to play baseball. The Baltimore Orioles know it, too.

Tony Oliva led off the sixth inning for Minnesota Tuesday night and struck out. But Oriole catcher Andy Etchebarren failed to handle the strike and Oliva reached first. One out later, Bob Allison homered and Minnesota had a 5-0 lead.

The Orioles then fought back to trail by only 5-4 with one out in the ninth. Up stepped pinch-hitter Larry Haney, who lashed the ball to right field and ended up on second base. But he failed to touch first and was out.

Ron Perranoski retired the next hitter and the second-place Orioles were beaten 5-4 to fall 6½ games behind the American League-leading Detroit Tigers.

The Tigers edged Cleveland 2-1 in 17 innings on Dick Tracowski's run-scoring single and led 5-2 after eight innings of the nightcap of the two-night double-header when it was suspended by a 1 a.m. EDT curfew. It will be completed tonight.

In other American League action, Boston trounced the Chicago White Sox 8-2 and California beat Washington 10-3 before losing to the Senators 1-0. The New York Yankees and Oakland were not scheduled.

Cincinnati blanked St. Louis 5-0, the Chicago Cubs nipped Atlanta 4-3, the New York Mets topped Houston 4-1, San Francisco took Philadelphia 4-1 and Pittsburgh defeated Los Angeles 4-1 in the National League.

Cesar Tovar scored the first two Minnesota runs and drove in the third. Frank Robinson and Bob Johnson drove in Baltimore runs in the sixth. The Orioles got another pair in the eighth on Boog Powell's RBI double and an error.

Tracowski's game-winning single was only his second hit in 33 at bats. It scored Willie Horton, who singled and moved to second when Bill Freehan was hit by a pitch.

Nicklaus Favored in American

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Strong-boy Jack Nicklaus looms as a solid favorite to snare his second straight tournament triumph when action starts Thursday in the $125,000 American Golf Classic.

The Columbus belter ended a long drought last Sunday with an easy victory in the Western Open. It was his first tour success since last October.

Big Jack, who always appears at his best when the challenge is great, will be testing the rugged, 7,180-yard par-70 Firestone Country Club layout, one of the finest courses in the country.

He'll also have to whip a strong field that includes slump-ridden but dangerous Arnold Palmer, the defending champion and the only two-time winner of the American Golf Classic.

There's certainly enough incentive for the 120 pros to shoot at since purse money has been boosted $25,000, which coincidentally is the first place prize.

Others in the limelight include leading money-winner Tom Weiskopf; U.S. Open king Lee Trevino; PGA champ Julius Boros; Masters titlist Bob Goalby and such standouts as Miller Barber, George Archer, Dave Stockton, Frank Beard and Gardner Dickinson.

CHICAGO (AP) — WGN broadcasting, which carries Chicago Cub baseball games on radio and television, said Tuesday night it had learned Montreal will lose its National League baseball franchise because of financial difficulties.

WGN, broadcasting on its radio and television outlets, said "a high baseball official" reported the franchise would be shifted to either Milwaukee or Buffalo.

In Montreal, John Newman, one of the Canadian City's financial backers, said the report is "a lot of garbage."

Newman said both Montreal and San Diego—the league's other expansion city—received an extension from Aug. 1 to Aug. 15 to make the first payment to the league.

Newman said the payment is to be $1,120,000 and the extension was granted by National League President Warren Giles. Giles was not available for comment on the WGN report.

VERA NIKOLIC, 20, of Yugoslavia, had no trouble keeping her footing when she won the 800-meter race at the recent British Women's Championships in London. But when she learned her time of 2:00.5—six-tenths of a second under the old mark—was a new world record, Miss Nikolic promptly fainted.

Kings Sneak Past Travs for 5-4 Win

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The El Paso Sun Kings erupted for four runs in the seventh inning Tuesday night to sneak past the Arkansas Travelers 5-4 in a Texas League game.

The Travelers, however, managed to maintain their 1½-game lead over Shreveport in the Eastern Division as Shreveport lost to Amarillo, 10-2.

Three of the four runs scored by El Paso were unearned.

The Travelers tried to pull the game out in the ninth, but their efforts fell short and their five-game winning streak was snapped.

Jerry Davanon scored his fourth run of the night for the Travelers when he was doubled home in the ninth.

Jerry Reuss suffered the loss for the Travs while Ken Tatum got the victory for El Paso.

In a game at Memphis Tuesday night, the Blues pounded out six extra base hits to defeat Albuquerque 4-1. Trailing 1-0 going into the fifth, the Blues were sparked by catcher Lloyd Flodin's lead-off homer.

Miss Jett had rounds of 77 and 87.

Souza May Be Fine Gift to Packers

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
For the Green Bay Packers the team that has everything, Fernando Souza might be the perfect gift.

Souza is a present from the Fall River, Mass., Astros of the American Soccer League, and he might be the latest soccer style kicker to make the grade in pro football after an on-the-mark performance Tuesday.

The 28-year-old center-forward kicked six field goals in 10 tries against the Packers' defense. He hit five of six from 3 yards and one of four from 42.

The defending National Football League and Super Bowl champions with an offense and defense that puts them again in the favorite's role this season are missing only a kicker since Don Chandler retired. And the Packers know what an important omission that can be.

With Paul Hornung doing the kicking, the Packers won their division title in 1960 and 1961 and Jerry Kramer helped them to the 1962 title with his kicking. But with Hornung suspended in 1963 and Kramer unable to repeat his fine year, the Packers lost out in 1964 and again in 1965 when Hornung returned and was unable to regain his form.

Then came Chandler, a big factor in Green Bay's sweep of the last three NFL titles.

Souza is Green Bay's first try with a soccer kicker, but the success of Pete and Charley Gogolak is nothing to be laughed at. And Souza's kicking certainly had the Packers thinking seriously.

The Philadelphia Eagles, however, probably had a few chuckles Tuesday as possibly the first NFL team to be fingerprinted, photographed, questioned and vaccinated all in one day.

The occasion for the squad of 56, plus coaches, managers and reporters, was preparation for the Eagles' trip to Mexico City for an exhibition against the Detroit Lions.

It was not known if the Lions already had undergone their day, but they had little to laugh about after learning that defensive end John Baker suffered a broken right forearm in a 13-0 loss Monday night to the Buffalo Bills of the American League.

LOUIS THINKS FRAZIER COULD WALLOP CLAY

The best active heavyweight, Louis said, "is Frazier, without question."

Griffith Turns Back Harris With Decision

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "They wrote that all Gypsy had to do was show up and bugalo and he's win. I guess the Old Man showed 'em something."

Emile Griffith was chortling in his dressing room at the Spectrum after winning a lopsided decision over previously unbeaten Gypsy Joe Harris. He referred to prefight stores he had read which wrote him off as an old man about to be devoured by the 22-year-old orthodox Harris of Philadelphia.

When it was over, however, Griffith, twice the middleweight champion, had ended the younger man's 24-fight winning streak. He did it with the authority of an experienced fighter giving a pupil a boxing lesson.

The decision was unanimous. Judges Nat Lippinon and Dave Beloff scored it 56-53 and 58-51, respectively, while referee Pete Tomasoo had it 58-53 for the 29-year-old New Yorker from the Virgin Islands. The Associated Press gave Griffith all 12 rounds and a 60-48 triumph.

Griffith, who lost his middleweight title last March to Nino Benvenuti of Italy, may have set himself up for a return bout with the Italian.

Griffith's co-manager, Gil Clancy said, "Benvenuti must fight Emile if he wants to fight for money, or else he'll fight for peanuts."

Clancy said Griffith has an offer to fight Jimmy Lester in San Francisco.

There was no doubt from the start as to the winner.

Steel Price Controversy in Critical Stage

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The steel-price controversy entered its critical period today with industry and government sources saying if there is no retreat by Thursday there probably won't be any for weeks — if at all.

This prediction was based by well informed sources on two factors: Evidence the industry is feeling government pressure and the fact the key Bethlehem Steel Corp. price hikes take effect Thursday.

Bethlehem, the No. 2 producer, and Pittsburgh Steel, No. 14, issued unsolicited announcements Tuesday pointing out that their price hikes did not include defense materials.

"That's not the behavior of an industry at peace with itself," said a government source close to the situation.

This source also pointed to the effective date of the Bethlehem increase and said, "If they're going to avoid getting locked in they'll have to move by then."

Industry sources agree, pointing out that by tradition differences in prices are resolved before they become effective.

"One company can't be out of line or nobody would go to it," said one key source.

Should Bethlehem leave its 4.5 per cent wide-ranging hike on mill prices intact after mid-night, a customer receiving steel would have to pay the new price even if the company rolled it back a few hours or days later.

"The bookkeeping alone would be monumental," said the industry source.

Bethlehem Steel announced the broadest increase in steel prices since 1962 last Wednesday, only hours after the industry reached agreement with the United Steelworkers on a new labor contract.

Other big producers followed suit, but some announced only selective increases.

President Johnson sharply attacked the general increases and gradually stepped up government pressure to roll them back. The selective increases, however, have drawn little criticism.

One of the keys the government is watching is the price of hot and cold rolled sheet and strip steel, a big tonnage item which eventually becomes toasters, refrigerators and automobile parts.

Bethlehem raised prices on the items. No. 1-ranked U.S. Steel Corp. didn't.

Government officials concede the Johnson Administration's efforts to trim the broad increase on mill products by Bethlehem and others could be a long battle.

There's little buying going on anyway, since inventories are extremely high due to strike-hedge buying. And steel prices are pegged to the price when delivery is made, not when it's ordered.

"You could say that if they don't move they don't lose anything," said one official. "But on the other hand they're trapped in a pricing box, struggling with a multistage pricing structure. They don't like that game."

The Pentagon and the Department of Housing and Urban Development have directed steel orders be placed where possible with firms which have made the narrowest range of increases. The Pentagon passed the word Tuesday to an artillery-shell maker, Chamberlain Corp. of Scranton, Pa., to "obtain the widest possible competition" when it purchases steel to be used in 1969.

Mechanical Election Error Is Questioned

By ED SHEARER
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Congressional candidate Jack D. Files of Brinkley has questioned a 2,000-vote "mechanical error" in Mississippi County's certified vote from the July 30 1st District Democratic primary.

However, Files insisted at a news conference that he wasn't claiming the vote had been stolen for Bill Alexander, the Osceola attorney he faces in next Tuesday's runoff primary.

Files scheduled his news conference to announce reception of an endorsement from Dr. Ralph R. Ratton of Paragould, one of the six defeated candidates.

However, he spent most of the time hammering away at Alexander, referring to his foe as "Bogus Bill."

Alexander, who tied the field with 33,480 votes, picked up an additional 2,000 votes in the Mississippi County certification, finishing with more than 8,000 votes rather than 6,000 as had been reported in the unofficial returns. Files polled 12,023 votes, 114 more than Ratton.

In his prepared statement, Files said, "I want Mr. Alexander to know that on Aug. 13, votes will be counted and not money."

He said he said this with some reservation since he noted the mechanical error.

"The right to vote is a meaningless thing if the vote is not counted as it was cast," Files said.

Files also charged that Alexander was "a man who will fabricate or, more bluntly, just plain lie about irrelevant qualifications" and that he was "not fit" to serve in Congress.

Alexander, informed of the charges, said, "Jack is a fine man, but he knows better than that. I stand on my record of community service, which is proof that my only interest is in representing all of the people of east Arkansas."

Files again labeled Alexander as "machine - motivated, machine - financed, machine - obligated and machine - owned."

Files, holding one of Alexander's campaign cards, noted that it listed service on the Osceola Civic Center Commission and Municipal Port Authority.

He said the information was misleading because both organizations had little or no purpose. He said the city had neither a civic center nor a port.

Alexander also listed himself as a member of the Mississippi County Quorum Court, but Files said he should simply state he is a justice of the peace.

"I suggest that an attempt at deception here is indicative of his true character and if afforded the opportunity, the next deceptions will grow with his position."

Meanwhile, Alexander carried his campaign to Pocahontas where he again discussed his proposed traveling field office to keep him in touch with the problems in the district.

"With the problems facing us growing more complex by the day, it is absolutely necessary that the congressman remain in close touch with the voters and that each and every person have access to their congressman," Alexander said.

Files also released a statement from Ratton in which the Paragould dentist said, "I think it's high time we got a man in Congress who would be free to

NEW YORK—(NEA)—What else would a fellow named Canary be but a singer? Even if he does have the build of a football player (and he had offers to be a pro in that field) and the broken nose to go along with pigskin roughhousing.

And even if he is playing a fellow named Candy in NBC-TV's popular Bonanza.

After searching for a suitable fourth male for the series, missing ever since Fernel Roberts "ankled" the show (to use the Variety vernacular), Canary is the one who made the grade. The day he knew he was set was the day they filmed a script written by Michael Landon, who plays Little Joe, which had Candy saying that even though he often threatened to leave the Ponderosa, he would not.

"Michael wrote the line and they filmed it as I said it," he says with a smile.

Canary is a quietly amusing, impressively bright young man who seems to be objective about himself. "With this face I thought I wouldn't get away from the villainous mold, but my smile takes away from my broken nose."

He is also a man with a dream. He wants to star in a

David Canary

A smile and a broken nose

Broadway musical comedy. He has a big, legitimate voice and began as a singer.

"I originally came to New York as a singer. If you're a singer the challenge is to get a straight play and I finally did with 'Great Day in the Morning.' Then I went out to Colorado to do 'The Fantastiks' and after that I played Stanley in 'Streeter Named Desire.' I got a call from New York to do 'The Fantastiks' there and I almost did, but I decided against it because I was married by that time and my price had skyrocketed to $55 a week.

"I don't want to sing on Bonanza because the only way it would fit the character would be to pick up a guitar and play badly and sing badly. Why should I give all those viewers a wrong impression of my voice? Maybe I'm foolish, but my dream is to come back and star in a Broadway musical. That would be the funnest thing of all."

When commercials and other TV shows start spoofing a TV show, that TV show is made. When it wins Emmy Awards two straight years. It is MADE.

And when a show is MADE, the creator has every right to be loud. Which is why Mission: Impossible's Bruce Geller comes as a pleasant surprise. He's a soft-spoken, almost-shy man who is a writer and producer with a vast amount of experience for someone who is only 38. He has produced The Dick Powell Theater and Rawhide, in addition to his present chore as executive producer and creator of Mission: Impossible and executive producer of Mannix.

Bruce Geller

The man behind Mission: Impossible

Geller, a tall, good-looking New Yorker, says the last two years have been good ones. In the past, "I've been white-haired and I've been fired," he says. "CBS has been good to us. The shows did not rate well in the beginning and if we had been on ABC, they would have been canceled."

When Geller was dreaming up the Mission: Impossible characters, he created one called Martin Land, especially for Martin Landau. The name was changed, of course, to Rollin Hand and has become an extremely important part of the show. Landau is an attractive man in an off-beat way and Geller says it's hard for a man to tell who a woman will find attractive. "I use my wife for that. Besides, lives there a man tiny, feeble and homely without some woman somewhere to say, 'He's cute.'"

'Wild Bunch' Will Be Bloody

By DICK KLEINER
NEA Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)

A refugee from the action tells me that Bill Holden's next, "The Wild Bunch," is one of the most violent films ever made. As a measure of the violence, my informant says the make-up department used 25 gallons of "blood" a week. At Barbara McNair's big opening at the Century Plaza (and she is McBeautifull) Joyce Selznick, Paramount's new-talent boss who is going to turn producer, was talking about one of her discoveries, Faye Dunaway. "If she'd started in Hollywood," Joyce says, "she'd still be doing television. But I started her in New York, and there's a dignity to people from New York, and so she became a movie star instead." It's sad, but true; Hollywood doesn't respect its own. At the same affair, Rod McKuen said he's doing screenplays now, and is so busy he has no time for the sun—and he looks it. Mark Richman, becoming a big painter these days, is having a showing at the E. B. Crocker gallery in Sacramento.

Brian Kelly is back from Italy, where he shot one of those Italian westerns (on the cannelloni prairie) which is called "Stark." He has some frightening stories about doing stunts over there.

Stuntmen are good, but underpaid. Two men rolled down a 200-foot cliff, fighting as they bounced and fell. They weren't satisfied with it, and volunteered to do it all over. The director, Bruno Corbucci, kept telling Kelly to do his own stunts—"You can do it, you're from California, aren't you?" Kelly

Senator Seeks to Use Young Talent

By NOEL GROVE
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The campus crowd is on the warpath and ominous smoke signals keep puffing up from the urban range. Far Right men speak with forked tongue, the kids say, and no one doubts that the young natives are restless and hanging away at the door of Ft. Establishment.

Then up comes a young Oklahoma senator with a plan to head off the Indians at the Generation Gap. The tribe is too big and too valuable to ignore, he says, so don't try to lick 'em... recruit 'em.

This country cannot afford to allow further alienation of a talented and committed human resource—youth, says Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma, who at 37 is too old to be a young Indian and too young to be running the fort.

The Youth Participation Act, introduced by him in the Senate early in July, would involve young people in actual policy-making positions in the country, but he gives it little chance of passage in this session of Congress. The strategy is to have the bill kicked around for awhile and then re-introduced in improved form in the 91st Congress next January.

Thirteen other senators co-sponsored this year's entry. They are Sens. Brooke, Cannon, Hart, Hatfield, Inouye, McGee, Mondale, Moss, Pell, Randolph, Ribicoff, Tydings and Yarborough.

Young people even assisted him in authoring it, Harris said.

"My daughter had a bunch of kids up to the house one night and we talked it over," said the Oklahoma Democrat. "And we also submitted it to a college group, and to the youth governors of the YMCA. They all made suggestions and were generally very enthusiastic about it."

A list of the cream of the banana generation across the country is now being compiled, he added, so a broad segment of young people can study the bill and make suggestions for the final legislation.

The act calls for establishment within the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare of a U.S. Office of Youth Participation.

At least half of the employees of the office would have to be between 16-24, with staff turnover required when they reach the maximum age. Which should bring a whole new dimension to the concept of the office retirement party.

The office would administer grants to both public and private organizations that would hire youths to assist in planning and policy-making in public service projects. Preference would be given to organizations already being run by youth.

For example, cited Harris, a group of young Indian men and women under 25 might want to organize a nonprofit tutoring agency for younger Indian children from reservations who are lagging in their public schoolwork. With funds from the Office of Youth Participation, they could set up a program using older children to teach the younger ones.

A local urban renewal agency, as another example, might apply jointly with a neighborhood youth group for funds to add young people to the agency's planning staff. Or the mayor of a city might seek funds to set up an advisory office on youth involvement in a city government. That youth office could assist the mayor and his administrators in creating positions for young people in various city departments, assisting, perhaps, as community aides in the police or welfare departments.

Harris' bill also calls for creating an Advisory Commission on Youth Participation, which would work directly with problems more nationwide in scope.

The commission would consult with government agencies that directly affect young people, such as the Selective Service System, Justice Department, Office of Economic Opportunity, and recommend to these agencies ways in which they could become more responsive to the needs and views of American youth.

The commission would also serve as a sort of youthful board of appeals, holding hearings on specific problems around the country. It might, for example, hold hearings on a university campus on the question of student participation in setting university policy. Or it might hold hearings on the particular problems of a group of ghetto youth in Harlem.

Such hearings, and such participation in local and national affairs, could do much toward narrowing the present chasm that exists between the generations, Harris feels, and toward cooling the flames of open rebellion that sometimes result.

But the transition to active youth involvement, he agrees, could have some rough spots. The inevitable clashes between age groups (to which any parent can testify) are bound to occur on a crucial policy-making level. And more than a few parents are likely to view the involvement programs as another case of youthful intrusion—of insisting on being heard as well as seen.

"But," says the senator, "we couldn't create any more of a generation gap than we have now."

Even the young planners might become discouraged, he agreed, when the realities and complexities of local politics and red tape drive their youthful eagerness into slow motion. Harris feels, however, this could be a good leveling device for both sides.

"True, young people in active participation would run into a lot of frustrations they don't now foresee," he said. "But they're not bound to the old ways of doing things. And it might be good for us to cut across some lines once in awhile."

So he refused. A stuntman did it, but broke his arm on the retaining rope. There was no body left, so Kelly did it. It worked.

For Kelly, after those Flipper episodes, this is all very different. He likes the change, likes playing "a no-good" as a departure. But he has fond memories of Flipper—and those checks.

"Flipper gave me what I call ethic money," he says. "Now I have enough income so I can say no, and just do what I want."

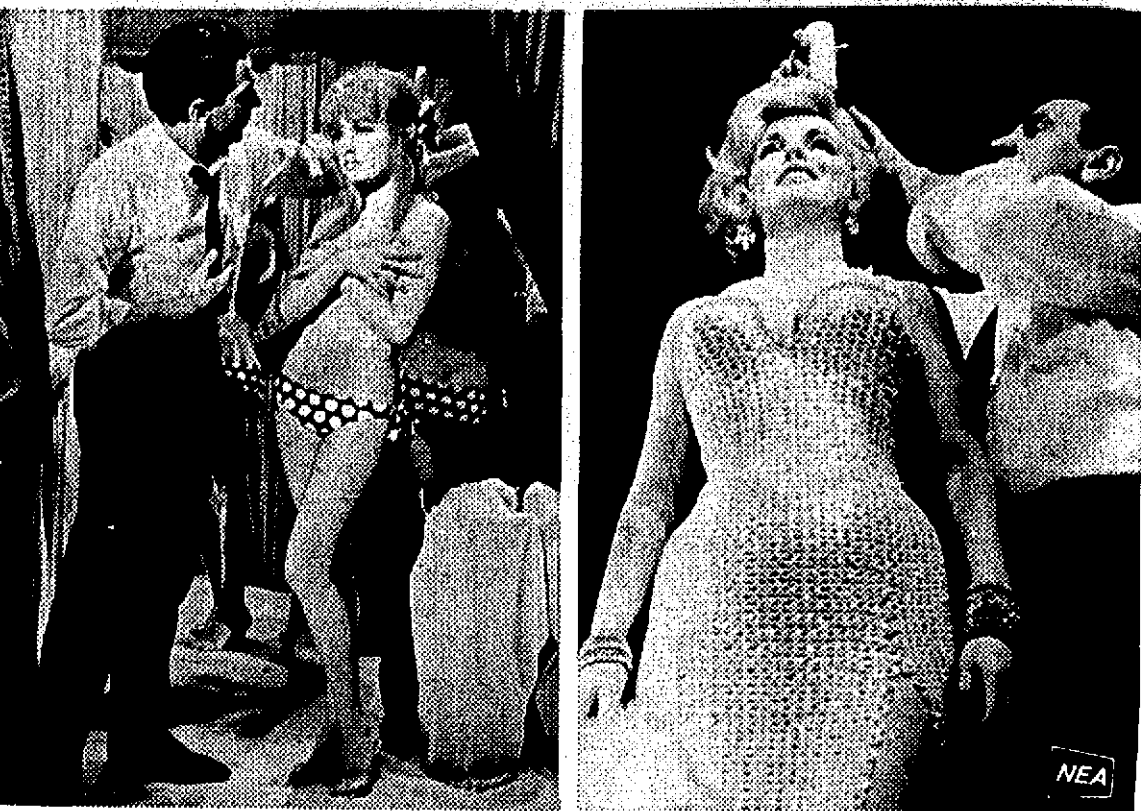

THE PSYCHIC STARS: Julie Andrews Julie Andrews' mother, after the birth of her fourth child, was depressed over the loss of her figure. She had gained weight and it didn't come off, so she and a friend decided to go to a rest home to lose weight. The place was an old, converted monastery.

Both the ladies felt that, for some reason, the bathroom was frightening. The next day, Julie's mother went into that room—and found a man had hung himself there. The owner of the establishment decided to exorcise the spirits which he said hung around that room.

"He did whatever one does," Julie says, "and the glass globe on the light exploded in his face."

Julie's mother did some research and found that the monastery was once owned by some monks who had the habit of throwing sinners off the parapets. Their last stop, before their tragic exit, was the room which later became the bathroom.

BEAUTIFUL BUT DUMB adequately describes the subjects getting attention here from hair stylist Anthony Caprio, for they are not really Jean Harlow, Brigitte Bardot and Marilyn Monroe, but remarkable likenesses of the stars. The dummies are statues in the Movieland Wax Museum in California. The human hair on these wax figures must be taken care of in much the same manner as the hair on the head of a living person; hence, the need for Caprio's services. One thing is certain: He gets no complaints from these clients.

President to Undergo More Medical Tests

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Tex., (AP) — President Johnson will undergo more medical tests before there is any official word on results of his annual physical checkup. Johnson spent five hours Tuesday at Brooke Army Medical Center in San Antonio, then returned to his ranch home 35 minutes away by helicopter.

Press secretary George Christian said the chief executive would make a brief return trip to the hospital today or Thursday for final tests requiring an overnight stay.

Mrs. Johnson, also having a checkup at Brooke, remained there Tuesday night. Her examination was being completed today.

Christian said a public report on the President's health would be issued later, by Johnson's personal physician, Vice Adm. George G. Burkley. The chief executive's tests were described by Burkley as "in general keeping with the policy I have followed for the President's annual physical examination."

State Group Going Along on First Ballot

By BILL NIEKIRK
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Arkansas Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller says he expects the state's Republican delegation to stand behind his favorite-son candidacy through the first presidential ballot tonight, although a Richard M. Nixon supporter says he may not go all the way.

Travis Beeson of Camden, state campaign manager for Nixon, said he would consider breaking away from the governor only if it appeared that Nixon was close to the nomination. "We may not have to cross that bridge because I think Nixon will get it without our vote anyway," Beeson said.

He said he would cast his vote for the governor when Arkansas' turn to vote comes up. But when Nixon's total nears the 600 mark—it takes 667 votes to nominate—Beeson is considering asking that the delegation be polled.

"If the vote gets crucial, I'll make my move," he said.

A noisy demonstration is planned for the governor tonight. Cass S. Hough of Rogers will nominate Rockefeller.

Before the delegates go to convention hall, they will hold a secret caucus and a straw vote will be taken. The three major contenders for the presidential nomination have been invited to speak.

Beeson's support of Nixon torpedoed the governor's request to retain his favorite-son role for two consecutive ballots.

Beeson flatly refused to accept Rockefeller's wish on grounds that the state central committee instructed the delegation only through the first ballot.

After a secret caucus Tuesday, Rockefeller said at a news conference that he dropped the request because "the consensus was that it would be damaging to the GOP cause in Arkansas if there was indication of pressure."

The governor is a candidate for re-election.

Rockefeller said that although

Increase in Shower Activity

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A slight increase in shower and thundershower activity and continued hot and humid weather is expected over Arkansas through Friday.

A weak low pressure system that stretches from South Dakota to the Gulf of Mexico, causing partly cloudy to occasionally cloudy skies and showers over scattered portions of the state.

However, despite rain in surrounding states under the pressure system, no rainfall has been reported in Arkansas in the 24-hour period that ended at 7:30 a.m. today.

Reservists Lose Bid to Gain Duty Release

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A federal judge has denied a petition by 113 Ohio Army Reservists to be released from active duty.

In a 14-page opinion Tuesday, Judge Frank A. Kaufman of U.S. District Court ruled that a law authorizing the President to call reservists was applicable to them even though they enlisted before the law became effective on Oct. 15, 1966.

The Reservists, stationed at nearby Ft. Meade, Md., had challenged the constitutionality of the law and contended Congress could not delegate to the President the power to call them to active duty.

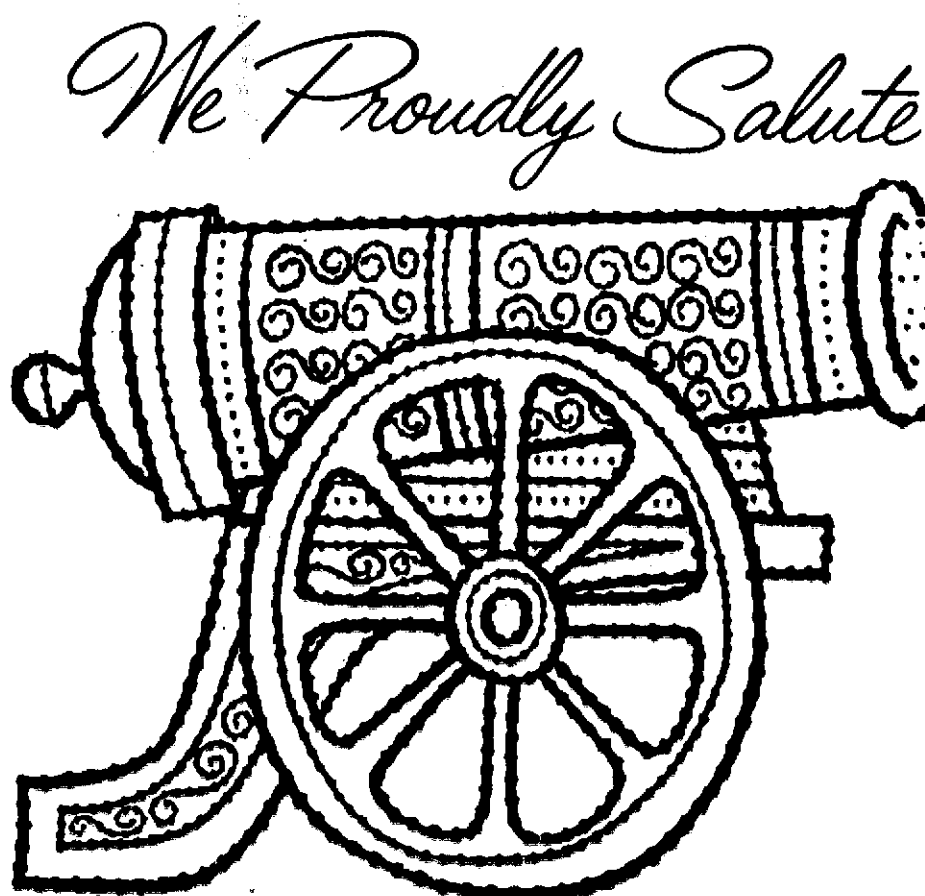

Their attorneys contended the men had a contract with the U.S. government under the law in effect when they joined the reserves, and that it was violated and abridged by the application of the 1966 statute.

Counsel also argued that the 1966 law, as applied to them, constituted a denial of equal protection of the law and violated the separation of powers doctrine.

Judge Kaufman said that under the law in effect when the men enlisted, the President was authorized to call reserves into active duty in time of national emergency "or when otherwise authorized by law."

The reservists were ordered to active duty as a unit last May 13, for two years' service. They had been on inactive duty with the 1002nd Supply and Service Company in Cleveland, Ohio.

Dirksen Gives Lesson in Elections

By SAUL PETT
AP Special Correspondent
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — John Wayne, the elder statesman, gave way to Everett McKinley Dirksen, the old prairie actor, and the Republican National Convention came alive last night.

Rising up from the tundra of tedium and the rhetoric of rigor mortis, it was Dirksen, United States senator, Senate GOP leader, Convention Platform Committee chairman, marigold musketeer, recording star, Peckin's peerless apostle of the new politics of the age of Elizabeth I, who gave the delegates their first incisive lesson in the arts of election, execution and speech texts.

"If you'll be quiet for 45 minutes," said Everett McKinley Dirksen, the beguiling negotiator, "I'll throw these speeches at you, wherever you want me to throw them."

And then he did, nine pounds of speeches, right over the speaker's platform, into the hearts of the peasants. While it was not precisely clear whose speeches had been jettisoned, it was obvious Dirksen still had his.

Now the delegates were quiet and the Pekin Pericles, rising slowly from the Armageddon tones of his basso profundo, began, "In Philadelphia 181 years ago, far-seeing men fashioned us a revolutionary new government. . . ."

He dared Russia to knock the chip off his shoulder.

"A Soviet leader declaims that ours is a rotten, decadent society. God forbid our having to make the point but, should he try us, he'll quickly find out what Americans really are!"

The delegates roared.

Membrane by membrane, Dirksen peeled off the skin of "The Great Society," stretching out each syllable of the phrase in a mockery of rubber.

"Oh, how cynical, how mocking that political slogan. . . . Never has an undeclared war embroiled America so long. . . . Never our prestige so low, our alliances so weakened, our image so impaired. . . . Never has the nation been so mired in debt. . . . Now we've been rocketed to fiscal outer space. . . ."

"Great Society indeed! . . . It is not a New Deal or a Fair Deal. It's just a straight-out Misdeal. Humor it longer, and it will destroy what the Founding Fathers wrought."

Body swaying, finger pointing out and down as if he were anointing the delegates in holy water, Everett McKinley Dirksen, lay preacher, quoted Abe Lincoln, Oliver Cromwell, Ben Franklin, got the delegates up on their feet and repeating after him, "One nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all," and, with lofty tolerance, finally allowed them to subside back into their seats.

Unsuccessful Candidates Back at Work

By PETE YOUNG
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — For the losers, the gubernatorial primary and its glamour are fading into history amid cashed hopes and the return to bread-and-butter pursuits.

All of the unsuccessful candidates said they were returning to normalcy after the hectic days of stumping 75 counties and hundreds of towns and meeting thousands of persons.

For Bruce Bennett, 50, who came in fourth in the Democratic primary and suffered his second straight political defeat, it is a return to private practice as an attorney at El Dorado.

"What are you interviewing me for?" Bennett asked a reporter jokingly. "I'm just a private citizen."

Bennett, who was defeated two years ago for re-election as attorney general, wouldn't comment either on his political future or whether he would support a candidate in the primary runoff.

"Maybe I'll issue a statement later," he said.

Frank Whitbeck, 45, a political notice who ran fifth in a six-candidate field, returned to his Little Rock-based insurance business Wednesday, the day after the election.

"After I get things squared away and my campaign headquarters closed and people thanked, I plan to take a vacation — in about September," Whitbeck said.

"There was no letdown," he said. "I was grateful for an opportunity to present myself and a point of view."

Whitbeck said he had no immediate plans to endorse either Rep. Marion H. Crank of Mrs. Virginia Johnson, who face each other in the Democratic primary runoff Tuesday.

Clyde Byrd, 67, of Little Rock, who attempted to make a political comeback and ran a distant last, said, "I haven't made any plans yet. I'm trying to get moved out of my headquarters."

"I have a ranch — livestock and cattle — but other than that, I just don't have any plans," he said. "I don't know if I'm going to get involved (in politics) again."

Ted Boswell, a 35-year-old atorney who nearly overcame the odds of being a political novice and reformer, said he planned to return to private practice. He said he would continue working for constitutional revision, but declined to say what his political plans for the future might be.

Crushed more severely than Byrd was Sidney C. Roberts of Little Rock, a 45-year-old traveling salesman, who was fired because of his entry into politics.

"I've got several things in the fire," Roberts said of employment. "I'll know something in about a week."

"I'm the only candidate ever to run and not run a single ad in the newspapers or on radio or television," he boasted. "But I didn't have the money."

Asked about his political future, Roberts laughed and then said, "I tried once."

Some authorities say the dolphin has a beak, the porpoise a blunter nose. In the United States most people, including biologists, call all these members of the whale order porpoises.

Governor of Ohio Keeps Own Counsel

By DON BANDY
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Gov. James Allen Rhodes continues to keep his own counsel on what ultimate role he and his powerful 58-vote Ohio delegation will play in selecting tonight the Republican presidential candidate.

The 58-year-old governor has refused to budge from his favorite son role, making it a point not to divulge his preference in the power struggle among the three major candidates, Richard M. Nixon, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Because of this, Rhodes has been called the key to the nomination and the man of the hour. Others say he's trying to play kingmaker. But whatever he's called, all the candidates have been wooing, pursuing and courting him.

Tonight Rhodes will be nominated for the presidency by his followers in the Ohio delegation, with all the trappings of a serious candidate.

The Ohioans have flooded Miami Beach hotels with "Rhodes for President" buttons, banners, balloons and literature. They are geared for a huge demonstration on the floor tonight when Rhodes is nominated by Dr. John Millett, chancellor of the Ohio Board of Regents.

"We decided months ago to come to Miami Beach uncommitted and that's just what we have done," Rhodes says in explaining why he has so far not come out for any certain candidate. Fifty-six delegates have made it clear they will not abandon Rhodes as favorite son, but the remaining two probably will go for Nixon.

Rhodes insistently denies ambitions for national office, including the vice presidency. Some observers feel that Rhodes may bargain for power in choosing the vice-presidential nominee, but is not seeking the post himself.

Eagleton Is Winner in Missouri

By LARRY HALL

Associated Press Writer
ST. LOUIS (AP) — U. S. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton, 39, of St. Louis, defeated U.S. Sen. Edward V. Long in Missouri's hot contest for the Democratic senatorial nomination Tuesday.
True, Davis, wealthy St. Joseph businessman who is a former ambassador to Switzerland and former assistant secretary of the Treasury ran third.
With the vote in from 4,138 of the state's 4,358 precincts, the count was Eagleton 205,078, Long 186,286 and Davis 162,261.
Life magazine said in May 1967, that Long misused his Senate subcommittee's investigations of eavesdropping and wiretapping in an effort to help James R. Hoffa, Teamster-Union president, now in prison. The magazine also said Long received $48,000 in legal fees from Morris Shenker, St. Louis lawyer who was Hoffa's attorney.

Long said the fees came from five clients he had referred to Shenker and that Shenker was not Hoffa's attorney in 1963 and 1964 when the $48,000 was paid. He called the charges a "dead issue" and a political smear.
The Senate Ethics Committee, after a four-month investigation, ruled that there was no wrong-doing on Long's part. The committee later reopened its inquiry and has issued no new report.
Long is 60, a lawyer and banker, and formerly was Missouri lieutenant governor and state senator. He has served in the Senate since 1960, when he was appointed to succeed the late Thomas C. Hennings of St. Louis.
Eagleton, who is finishing his first term as lieutenant governor, formerly was Missouri attorney general and St. Louis circuit attorney.

U.S. Rep. Thomas B. Curtis of Webster Groves had no serious competition for the Republican senatorial nomination.
There was no contest for the governorship nominations.
Another Symington from Missouri also scored a primary victory. James W. Symington, a son of Missouri's senior U.S. senator, Stuart Symington, won the Democratic nomination in the second congressional district. He will be opposed by Republican Hugh Scott.
The 40-year-old Symington resigned as U.S. chief of protocol to enter the race.
Until Abraham Lincoln put Thanksgiving in November in 1863, it had showed up in eight different months.

Republican Convention at Glance

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Here are the highlights of the Republican National Convention.

Nominating Speeches—Richard M. Nixon will be nominated tonight by Maryland Gov. Spiro T. Agnew, Nelson A. Rockefeller by Pennsylvania Gov. Raymond P. Shafer and Ronald Reagan by former U.S. Treasurer Irv Baker Priest.

Roll Calls—Alphabetical calling of the delegations to select the Republican presidential candidate.

Tally—667 needed for the nomination. The Associated Press survey of certain votes early today showed Nixon with a big lead over Rockefeller and Reagan.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The candidates have enlisted an array of celebrities to promote their cause. Appearing at Nelson Rockefeller gatherings are such stars as Helen Hayes, Kitty Carlisle, Teresa Wright, Nancy Ames and Hildegard.

Among Richard Nixon's promoters, basketball star Wilt Chamberlain of the Los Angeles Lakers, stands out in the party crowd. He should. He's 7 feet 2 inches tall.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) —

HOPE (ARK) STAR, Printed by Offset

Convention delegates, previously linked because they were turned down for extra convention tickets, were visibly irritated and privately angered at New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller over the admission of 52 members of the Poor People's campaign—all with bona fide tickets.

The marchers reportedly received tickets from National GOP Chairman Ray Bliss, Illinois Sen. Charles Percy, New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, Rep. Ogden Reid of New York and Clarence Townes, director of the Republican Minorities Division, among others.

Many of the delegates, primarily of the Reagan camp, felt the tickets were given to the group under pressure by Rockefeller.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Just to test things out, a newsman showed up at Convention Hall Tuesday night totally without credentials.

He got in the parking area without a pass. He got into the hall itself, again without a pass. But he finally was stopped. In the free-beer hall run by 13 railroads.

Evidently one sure security rule in this security-conscious convention is: No pass, no beer.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The largest single expense incurred by the Republican National Convention probably will be the cost of paying security guards and ushers, according to Mrs. J. Willard Marriott, treasurer of the convention.

Mrs. Marriott, of Washington,

D.C., said no price has been set yet for the more than 300 private security people hired by the convention but no other single category will cost more.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon says if he receives the Republican presidential nomination he will keep Ray C. Bliss as GOP national chairman.

Bliss, the Ohio Republican leader, has been chairman of the national party organization since shortly after Barry Goldwater's overwhelming defeat four years ago to President Johnson.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Don E. Williams was favoring his left leg today. A Southern Christian Leadership Conference demonstrator, he was run over by a covered wagon Tuesday night when a pair of mules bolted.

Williams, 22, of Savannah, Ga., was tending the mules—which later pulled the wagon to the GOP Convention Hall—when the animals broke for no apparent reason.

He was rushed to a hospital by ambulance and released after treatment for abrasions of the left leg.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Hiding along Collins Avenue amid the Republican convention traffic Tuesday was a black car with this message painted on both sides: "I've been down the road with Lyndon."

Washington D.C. has 32 sidewalk cafes. New York City has 82.

Genetic Defect Could Lead to More Crime

BARHARBOR, Maine (AP) — New studies indicate that a genetic defect linked to crime and violence may be upwards of six times more common than previously thought.

Instead of affecting one man in 2,000, the abnormality may be present in one out of every 300, three prominent geneticists said Tuesday.

The defect involves the makeup of a man's chromosomes, 46 groupings of the genes which are the means for transmitting heredity. Normal women have sex chromosomes designated XX while normal men have sex chromosomes designated XY.

Men with the defect discussed at the seminar have an extra Y element in their sex chromosomes, which are designated XYY.

The XYY condition gained worldwide attention recently when Daniel Hugon, a French stable hand accused of murdering a prostitute, was found to have XYY chromosomes. His lawyers contended he was not responsible for his actions because of his genetic makeup.

There also has been speculation that Richard Speck, convicted of killing eight Chicago nurses, is XYY, but his case still is before the courts and the role of an XYY condition is not clear.

Men with the XYY condition characteristically are excessively tall, often six inches above normal. Many are dull mentally and often have acne. Their behavior varies from passivity to extreme aggressiveness.

The three geneticists — Dr. Park S. Gerald of Harvard Medical School, Dr. Malcolm Ferguson-Smith of Glasgow University in Scotland, and Dr. William J. Young of the University of Vermont — spoke at a conference being conducted at the Jackson Laboratory by Johns Hopkins University with March of Dimes support.

Their conclusions were based on a total of 3,700 consecutive births, half male and half female, in Canada, Edinburgh, Scotland; New Haven, Conn.; and Pittsburgh, Pa. Six cases of the XYY syndrome were found among the male babies.

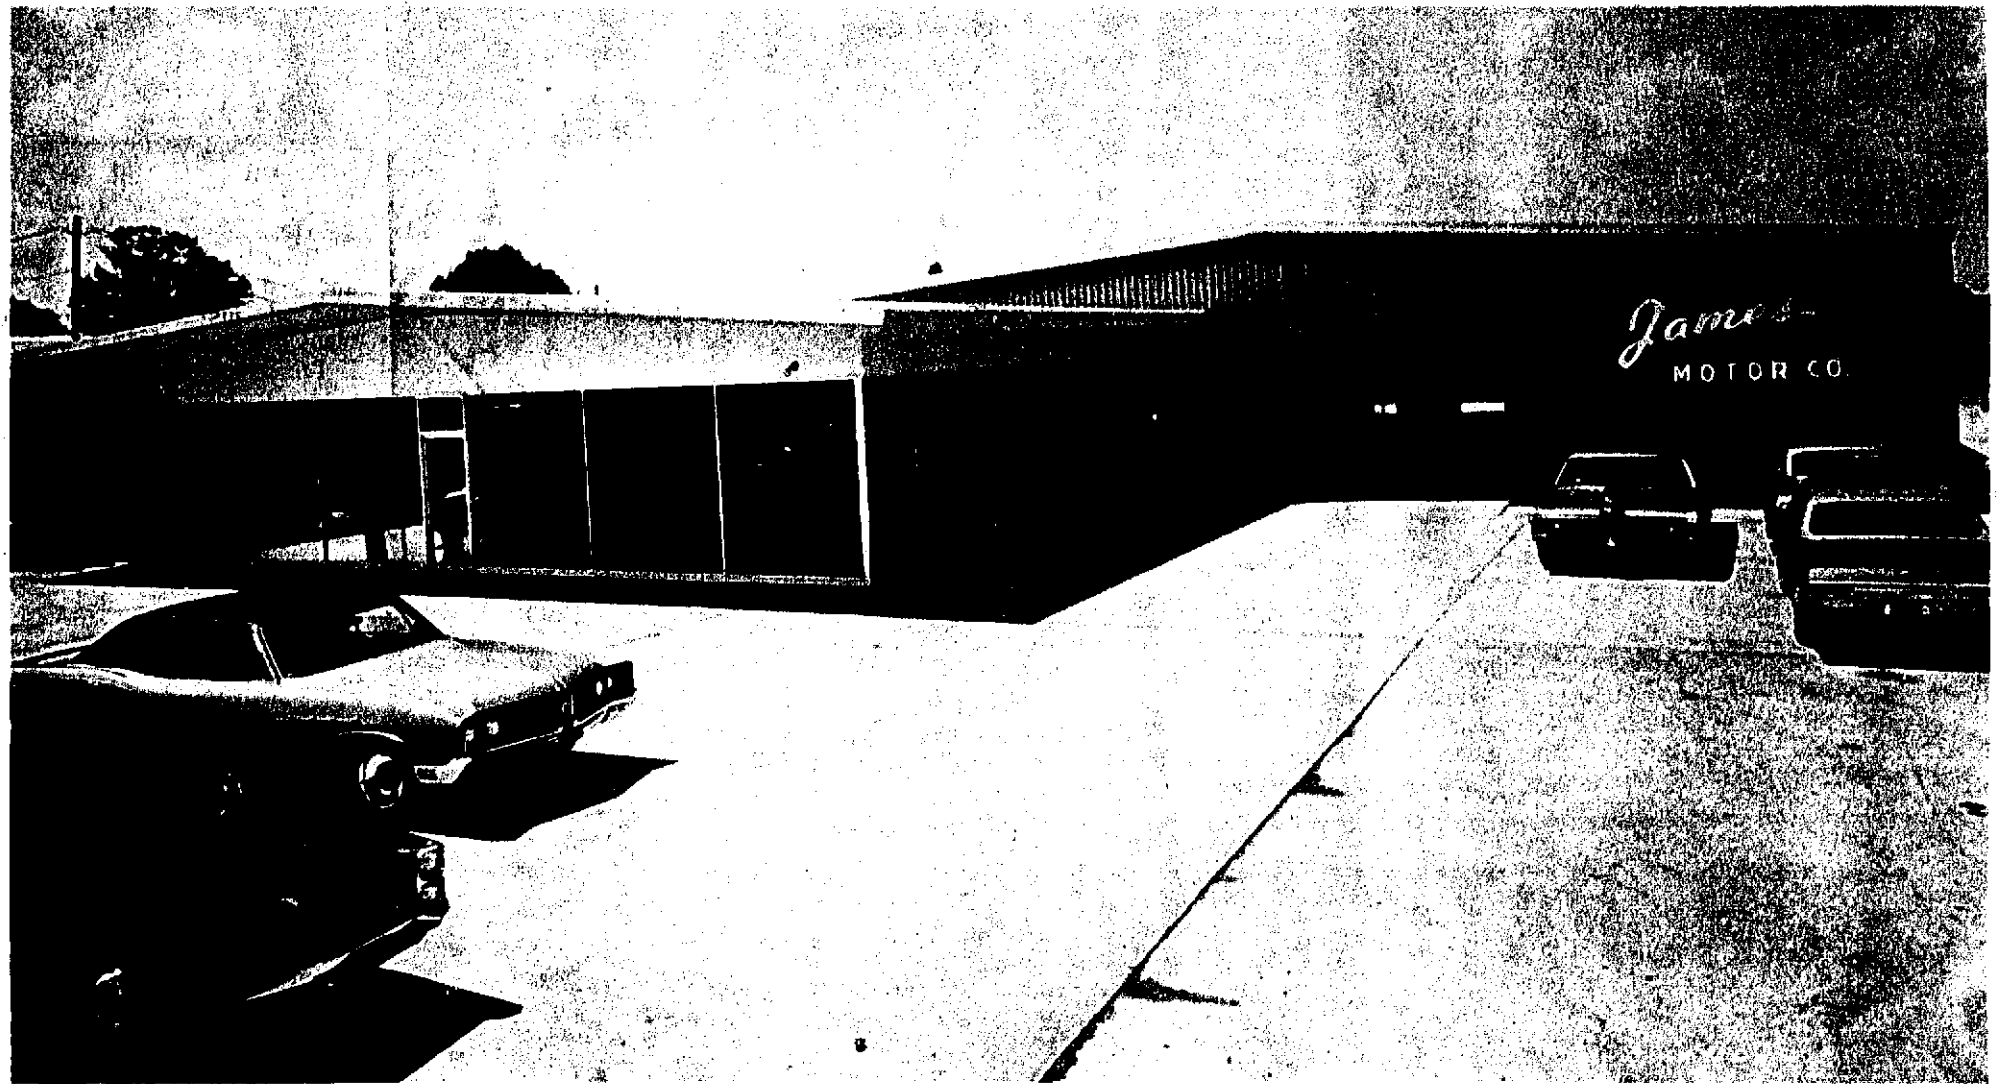

NEW COMPUTER SETUP

CHICAGO (AP) — Great Britain's General Post Office will be the location for an on-line computer system linked to four research centers in London.

The manufacturer (Burroughs) said here that the system is being installed this summer at telecommunications headquarters in Gresham Street. It will serve nearly 3,000 scientists and engineers working on projects ranging from calculating satellite orbits for trans-Atlantic communications to working on properties of a new micro circuit.

Nine terminals connected on-line with the computer will also provide instant printed replies to instructions in each of these offices. The system will automatically log and calculate computer time being shared by scientists and engineers.

Rockefeller's Wife Stays in Shadow

By FRANK MURRAY
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Happiness for Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller, the campaigner, is staying in the shadow of her famous husband.

Happiness for Happy Rockefeller, the wife, is staying home with the Rockefeller children.

During the hectic days of the Republican National Convention, Mrs. Rockefeller stands by her husband's side at receptions and public appearances. She smiles, shakes hands and greets most comers: "Nice to see you. How nice of you to come."

But there are no speeches, no planned interviews. Mrs. Rockefeller is the only wife of a candidate who has not attended convention sessions.

"She's a shy woman," said a member of Mrs. Rockefeller's staff. "She's led a sheltered life. She isn't a solo campaigner. But she plays an effective role, an enormous role."

Mrs. Rockefeller has told friends that campaigning for office is her husband's job, just as other husbands go daily to the office or factory. She said her role as a wife is to stay in the background, tend the children and keep a pleasant home for the New York governor.

The elegant young daughter of a Philadelphia Main Line family, constantly wearing pastel linen dresses, has been nearly trampled by newsmen and crowds while following her husband on many of his appearances.

The smile is Happy's secret weapon, both on offense and defense.

When a newsmen asks a question, she may nod, smile and walk away as if she did not hear. Even when cornered, Mrs. Rockefeller says little but is never rude.

"I find newspaper people bright and fascinating company," Mrs. Rockefeller said in a prepared release, "but I just do not consider myself an authority on large issues and therefore can't make formal statements on them."

Fulbright's primary battle with segregationist Jim Johnson was a rough one and the resulting ill feeling probably will reduce the Democratic vote in November," the magazine said.

McMath, a Democrat, was not available for comment. He is at Camp Pendleton, Calif., with the Marine Corps Reserve, and is not expected to return to Arkansas before Sunday.

His wife said Tuesday night that she knew nothing about the article and "you will have to ask the general."

McMath, a major general in the Reserve, has been highly critical of Fulbright's position on the Vietnam war.

Mullins said about 21,000 of those would be within a 50-mile radius of Little Rock. He said that through a merger, by 1980 about 10,000 more students than now attend LRU would be enrolled and that would still leave 32,000 for the other colleges.

"We certainly would not want to press for the merger if it would weaken present programs of the university or of other state-supported higher educational institutions," he said.

"I know of no other state in our region which has not significantly increased its revenue during this period," he said.

Mullins also called for the merger of the university and Little Rock University. He said this was "the most effective, efficient and economic way of meeting the education needs in Central Arkansas."

He said it is essential for the area to have state-supported higher education facilities if it is to be the hub of the state's economy. Mullins said he did not believe Fulbright had won the

School Phobia

BROOKLYN, N.Y.—(NEA)—Several years ago curly haired Janie came home from school one evening and was taken to stay with relatives in another section of town while her home was being remodeled.

The next morning Janie got up, dressed for school and began a three blocks' walk to meet her third-grade friends. Shortly after leaving her cousin's house Janie returned in tears, was put to bed and refused to go to school for a month.

A child psychiatrist at Malmonides Medical Center here now labels her behavior a bad case of "school phobia." In Janie's third-grade days the truant officer, teacher, family and doctor laughed it off as homesickness. Their diagnosis seemed correct, for Janie's "illness" disappeared when the family moved back to their home.

Janie's case is familiar to a majority of parents. According to Dr. Norman Sher, father of two small children, school phobia is increasing. "It reflects the tension of our times," he says quietly. "I do not consider such behavior a true phobia, though, and it touches youth from 5 to 18 but you see it mainly in children entering kindergarten and first grade."

Although Sher suggests parents relax when a child comes up with the school-dodging symptoms most adults remember using, he urges them to treat the problem quickly. The child who uses a headache, stomachache, actually gets nauseous and vomits to avoid a day or two of classes or runs home from school and refuses to leave home is to Sher a reasonably healthy child.

Why, then, does he refuse to go to school?

Sher explains that his actions show an apprehension about leaving home. "I differentiate this behavior, often after a vacation, on Mondays or at the start of a new semester, from out-and-out truancy, from schizophrenia or mental illness where the child actually withdraws from life."

The child in most cases isn't afraid of school but of leaving home, he repeats. This is why it is necessary to get the youngster back in school immediately and then try to find out what is wrong.

"Don't treat school phobia like the measles and expect it to go away. It will go away but the underlying cause needs to be brought to the surface or deeper troubles may result."

Sher points out that a healthy child may hide-out during the day and then go out to play when friends come home. Behind the problem may be the child's sense of tension within the family.

"A mother," Sher explains, "may be afraid that something will happen to the child while he is away from home. Or she may get particularly angry with one child in the family, feel guilty about this and repress the feelings. A death in the family, an auto accident, an elderly person living within the home may bring counterconcern for the youngster. This puts him in a bind and makes him reluctant to leave home."

Sometimes a child is a borderline retardant or is having reading difficulties that disturb him but Sher does not put a child with these problems in his "school phobia" group.

Often a child, he explains, drawing on his own experience as a father, is not ready to move out, to go to nursery school or kindergarten. Even a child of six may have trouble going to school at first. With the pressure to push tots into the classroom at earlier ages, Sher shakes his head and theorizes that "there is definite folk wisdom in selecting age seven for entering school."

Whatever the age and the cause for apprehension that keeps a child home, Sher urges help from the family physician and school attendance or guidance counselors as first steps. "First get the child back into the classroom, then visit the family to find out what is happening to it to bring on the reaction."

"I believe in short term, quick help. If there is a severe maladjustment, then I would suggest it be treated as a psychiatric emergency."

"The overanxious mother needs to ask herself, 'What makes me uncomfortable about my child going to school?' and try to relax," Sher adds. "In severe cases we've had to treat the whole family."

MONEY CLIPS

by Mort Reed

The expansion of knowledge from the beginning to the present—and beyond—makes this Menconi creation one of the most unusual designs ever struck on a medal. Collectors should find it an impressive addition to their cabinets.

The noted sculptor, Ralph Menconi designed this 1 1/2-inch pure silver medal to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the founding of the World Almanac and the Medallist Art Co. struck only 500 serially numbered pieces for public distribution, which makes it a potentially valuable collectors item.

The reverse displays a Greek coin, the Athenian tetradrachma in the upper left with two directives leading to and past a rounded projection of the world denoting an unbroken flow of knowledge from the ancients to the present.

A vertical free-form superimposed between the lamp of knowledge and the globe symbolizes the accumulation of facts beyond the confines of the earth. "I tried to show knowledge from the beginning to the present time," said Menconi. "The World Almanac is a living volume where new facts constantly supplant the old."

The obverse shows four directives leading downward from a sinusoidal projection of the world into an open book representing the World Almanac. The book separates the dates 1868 and 1968 and a radial inscription at the top says, "The Authority for 100 Years."

The satin finish and bold relief of this medal makes it very attractive. It is struck in .999 + pure silver as indicated on the rim and each piece bears a serial number from 1 to 500. This number is recorded as it is sold to help the purchaser establish ownership.

I would suggest that anyone buying this or any other serially numbered medal include the number on a list of valuables required by insurance companies.

In checking the availability of these medals, I learned that there are a few left and any interested collector may address a check for $15 to WORLD ALMANAC SILVER MEDALS, 230 Park Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10017.

CERTIFICATES—Many readers apparently failed to read the list of redemption centers published in this column because we continue to receive letters requesting information on the selling of these certificates at a premium.

Many letters were delivered on or after the deadline date of June 24 and it would have been pointless to supply the material requested. I sincerely hope few were caught holding their wad, but some most certainly were.

This is not a complete loss.

Your dollar or five dollar bills are still worth $1 or $5 according to their face value and possibly even more. It isn't as though your paper currency suddenly became worthless. However, there may still be a way to secure more than the face value for those who persist in disposing of them.

Send a post card only to this column listing the silver certificates you have, their condition, their denomination and whether or not they are in numerical order. Affix your address and name. If enough responses are received, this column will endeavor to locate a firm or firms interested in acquiring these bills for whatever numismatic value they may have.

1968 U.S. MINT SETS—When you receive your copy of the Mint Set order blank from Coin World, make out your postal money order to the office designated in the form and have it ready to mail the first thing Monday, July 15. This will assure you of an early return from the mint.

Mrs. T.A. Mac, Cedar Rapids, Iowa (Cedar Rapids Gazette): Your list of 20 top value silver dollars and silver certificates is in the mail. A one year ($2 weekly issues) subscription to Coin World is $6. Just mail a check in that amount to Coin World, P.O. Box 150, Sidney, Ohio 45385. While you are at it, ask for a sample copy of their newly acquired publication, "Numismatic Scrapbook."

A good all-around coin book as you call it, is the collectors' Red Book. Any coin or book dealer should have the latest edition on his shelf. If not ask for it by its real name: A Guide Book of United States Coins.

Miss I. Mc., Waterloo, Iowa (Waterloo Daily Courier): There were 750,500 1867 half-dollars minted. An 1867 with large stars in good condition lists at $16. Fine at $35. Extremely fine at $100. A 1925 Stone Mountain commemorative half-dollar lists at $7 uncirculated and $3.75 in extremely fine. A 1951 Booker T. Washington commemorative half-dollar lists at $30 for the set of three, which makes one valued at $10. The 1923 Monroe Doctrine Centennial half-dollar lists at $6.50 in extremely fine condition and $13 uncirculated.

An 1852 gold dollar shows a price tag of $35 fine to $57.50 uncirculated. A 1902 and 1907 $2.50 gold piece lists at $40 to $65, depending on condition. The 1925 quarter eagle is valued at $22 to $32 dollars. Your 1910 gold eagle shows a book price of $50 to $75.

These prices are their top retail values and you may expect to receive roughly half the amount from a dealer. Whatever you do, take these coins to your nearest bank vault for safe keeping.

Note: Normally inquiries of this length are not answered in this column, but the information serves to answer many requests about the same coins from other readers.

Deaths Ruled Coincidence by Coroner

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Washington County Coroner Bill Vinzant said Tuesday the deaths of two Fayetteville men and the sudden illness of one man's wife was a coincidence.

Maurice Lebeouf, 51, and William C. Cullen, 52, had histories of heart ailments, said Dr. Vinzant. He said Lebeouf died of a heart attack at his home Saturday night shortly after serving as best man in Cullen's wedding.

Cullen died early Sunday in Oklahoma as he and his new wife were driving near Westville, Okla.

Vinzant said he served as the personal physician for Mrs. Cullen, whom he said had a history of nausea and vomiting. ROAD TO IMPROVEMENT—PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa (AP)—Bus firm manager Rollo Dickson told his company needed some living up, so he put this slogan on one of his buses: "As comfortable as your car, these new buses — even on Heugh Road."

Heugh Road was known as one of the roughest in the city. Apparently the city council took note, because Heugh Road now has a smooth new surface.

And the new slogan on Dickson's bus reads: "Now every bit as comfortable as your car, these new buses — especially on Heugh Road. Thank you, Mr. City Engineer!"

Negroes Barred From Pool at El Dorado

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP) — Bob Sweeney, president of the El Dorado Boys Club Board of Directors, said Tuesday night that the club's swimming pool will be closed for the rest of the summer. Negroes earlier Tuesday picketed the white-only policy for use of the pool.

Sweeney said the board had decided closing the pool was the best course to follow.

Pool Manager Mike Daniel said the pool was closed Monday when about 25 young Negroes were denied admission after he told them that, according to policy, only whites had access to the pool.

Daniel said two members of the group jumped into the pool, but that when he told them it was being closed to all swimmers, the two got out of the pool and the group left without incident.

Among those picketing the pool Tuesday was Thadeous Payne, president of the El Dorado chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

Payne, 37, pastor of the Evergreen Baptist Church, said

Office staff of James Motor Company is Mrs. Jackie Brown, office manager at left and seated, Mrs. Audria Moses, bookkeeper. The Company will hold their official Grand Opening Thursday, August 8, in their new building at 1800 East Third street.

Tuesday, "Those fighting integration are fighting a losing cause," Payne said. Negroes had enrolled for Boys Club programs this fall because that club offered "much more adequate facilities than those of the James Johnson Boys Club," a Negro facility.

Sweeney quoted Payne as saying the pickets would continue until the Boys Club board authorized Negro swimmers or until the board voted to return the pool to the El Dorado Youth Council. Sweeney said the clubs leases the pool from the council.

El Dorado was the scene of some racial unrest earlier this year following the acquittal of a white boy charged with murder in the shotgun slaying of a Negro boy.

Most of Life

By DICK KLEINER
NEA Hollywood Correspondent

HONOLULU — (NEA) — Hollywood may some day succeed in doing something to Maggi Parker that life hasn't done — type-cast her.

Maggi is the Hawaiian discovery that all the people connected with the new CBS series, Hawaii Five-O, are excited about. It is easy to understand their excitement; Maggi is one sharp lady.

No teeny-bopper or juvenile sex symbol, she's a mature, sophisticated, but down-to-earth 34-year-old. She's crammed more into her 34 years than most people do in to a lifetime. And she's still cramming.

Maggi is a proper Bostonian, distantly related to the Parker games people. She always wanted to act, but that ambition was frowned on by her parents.

So she took her master's degree in education from Boston University and set out on a teaching career. She taught in Nashua, N.H., and on Cape Cod. Then she signed up as a teacher with the Air Force.

She taught in a school the Air Force maintained for its own in Tokyo. She was the principal of an Air Force school in Madrid. She became an expert in handling emotionally disturbed children at an Air Force base on Mallorca.

She came to Los Angeles to work on her doctorate at the University of Southern California. She was studying school administration, but marriage got in the way. Instead of a Ph.D., she got a Mrs., and came to Hawaii in 1964.

The marriage didn't work, but Hawaii did. She loves the islands, and the people.

When Hawaii Five-O came here, she was among the first local actors cast, playing the continuing role of Jack Lord's secretary. It isn't a big part — yet — but she's there every week, and there is the usual talk of enlarging her role in coming episodes.

"At first," Maggi says, "I was deathly afraid of Jack. For the first two shows, I'd look up from my desk and there would be this blank wall — nothing in his eyes. But somehow, that changed in the third show. For the first time, he seemed to see me. It's been fine from then on."

Prisoners Sentenced

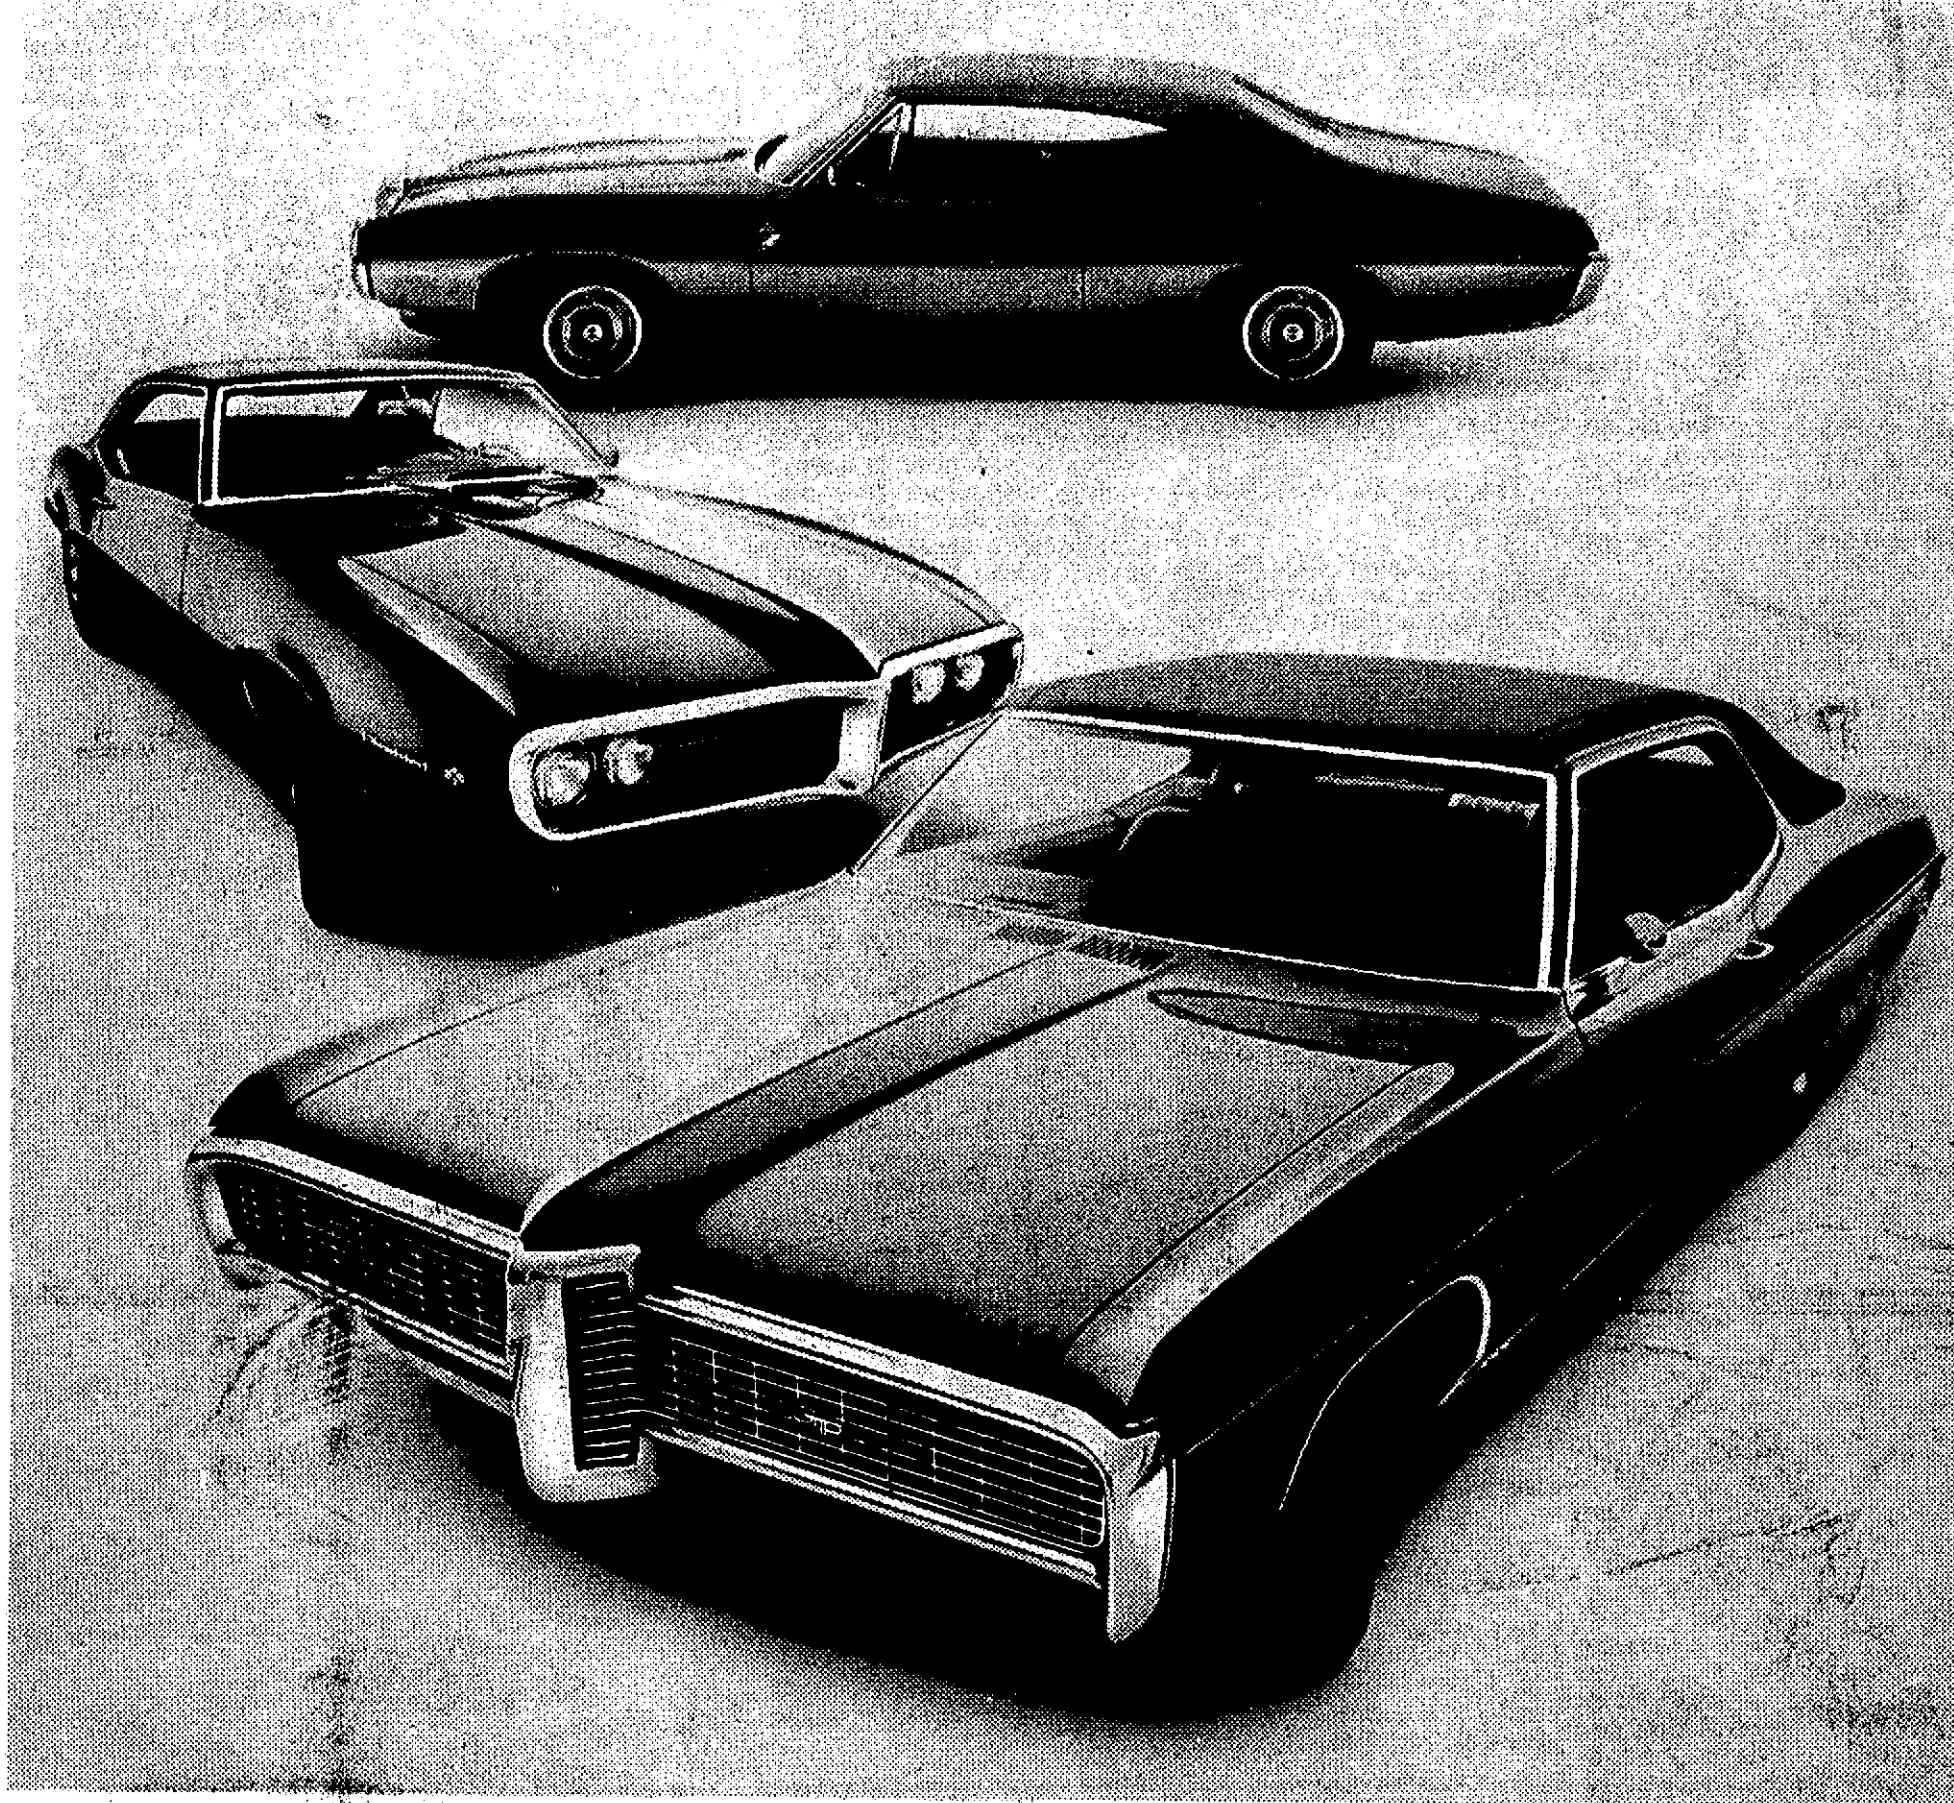

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — Fourteen Tucker Prison Farm inmates drew sentences for escape in Circuit Court here Tuesday.

Judge Henry W. Smith sentenced each to four months in addition to his present sentence.

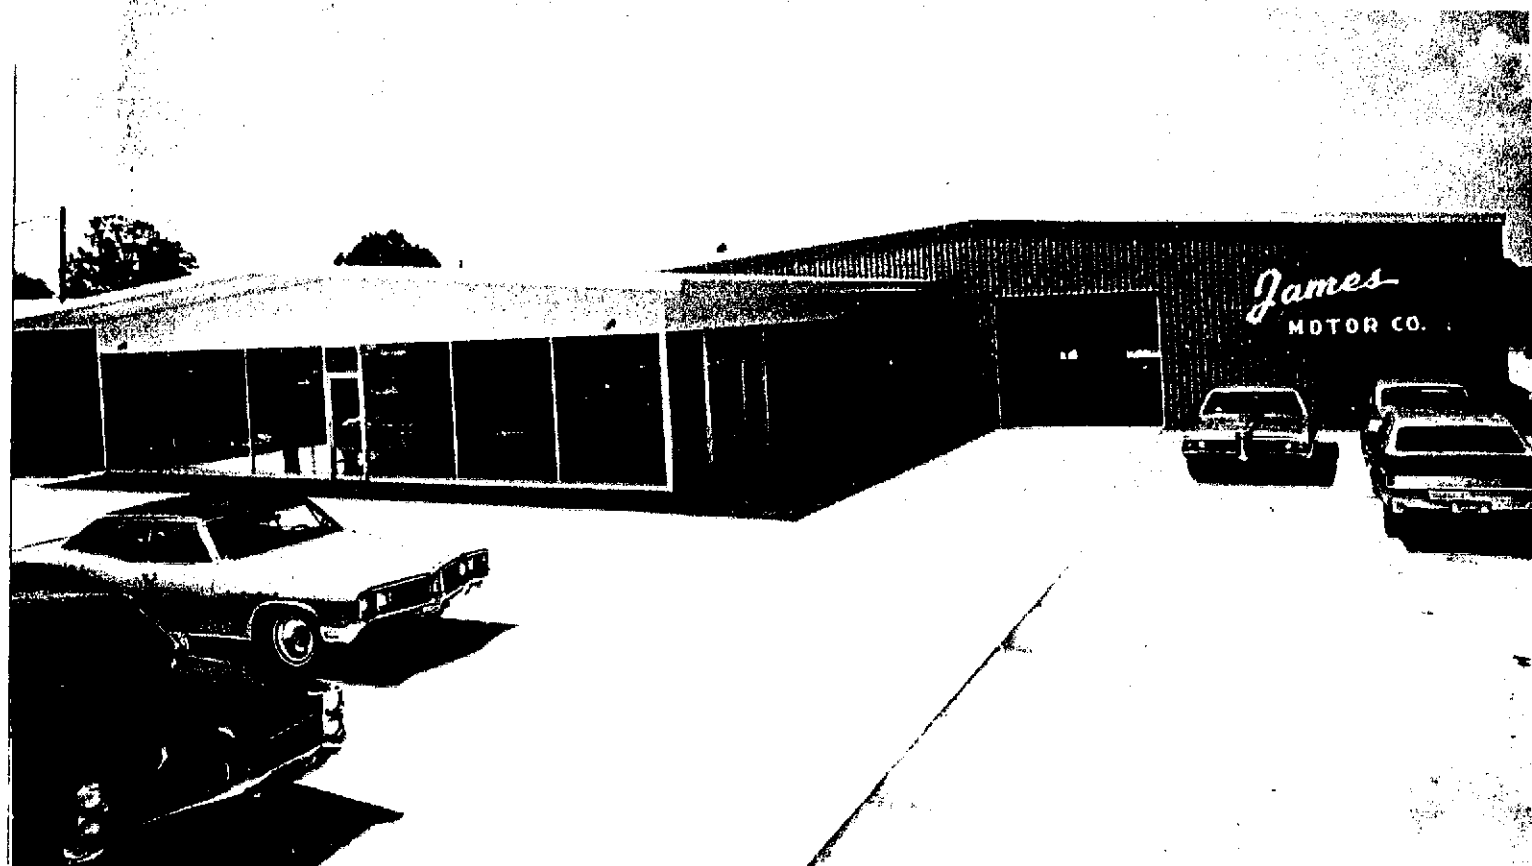

Charges of escape were dismissed against two other inmates. Smith said the two men already had been charged with grand larceny committed while gone from the prison.

"Lost 10 Days"

In 1582, Pope Gregory XIII corrected the difference in sun and calendar time by dropping 10 days from October. By this arrangement, the day that would have been Oct. 5, 1582, became Oct. 15. Hence, the "lost 10 days."

Three great reasons why we expanded.

When you have a line of such elegant driving machines as Firebirds, Grand Prix, GTO, Bonneville, Catalina, Le Mans and Tempest on your showroom floor, you're just naturally going to attract a crowd. So we've added new facilities to serve you even better. And to make your visit with us an even more pleasurable experience.

Won't you come in and let us show you around? No obligation, of course. We're understandably proud of our new look, but it hasn't affected the way we do business. We still have a very low opinion of high pressure. (Of course, if you should find it impossible to resist an urge to indulge in the great American sport of Wide-Tracking, we'll be happy to oblige you with a deal that will make giving in a profitable experience.)

But do come. Even if it's only to kick a tire.
